'BREAK' REPORTS IN KIDNAP PROBE STIR PRINCETON

Unconfirmed Stories Relate Boy Has Been Found Dead, That Confession in Case Has Been Made.

HOOVER ASSUMES CHARGE OF SEARCH

Town Resembles Armed Camp; Field Kitchens Set Up To Feed Posses.

PRINCETON, Fla., June 2.—(AP)—Numerous reports of a "break" in the Jimmy Cash kidnapping case caused recurring flurries of excitement tonight in this south Florida village while some 2,000 men searched in vain for some trace of the five-year-old child over an area of 80 square miles.

The reports—all without confirmation—related that the youngster had been found dead, that federal agents in Miami had obtained a confession from one of the many persons they questioned, and that a man had been found whose fingerprints corresponded to those on the notes demanding the $10,000 ransom which was paid by the boy's father.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who flew to Miami to take personal command, said he had no statement to make as he left FBI headquarters to go to dinner.

His aides apparently were continuing to question a number of persons they thought might throw some light on the crime. The Miami Herald said they included Willard Campbell, Miami roadhouse proprietor; John Campbell, his brother, who operates a resort at Princeton; James Herndon, M. F. Braxton and his son-in-law, Ray Rayburn.

John Manuel, negro at whose shack the kidnapers left a ransom note, shouting to him to deliver it to James Bailey Cash Sr., was understood to have been questioned as to whether he could recognize the voice.

Ransom Cash Reward.

The FBI posted a reward of double the face value for finders of the first 100 ransom bills, the serial numbers of which were distributed yesterday.

It also broadcast a description of the 5-year-old blond, blue-eyed youngster containing this poignant line after stating the height of 3 feet 7 inches:

"Note: This height was obtained from a mark placed on a wall within the past several weeks by the father in measuring the actual height of the boy."

All indications were that the federal agents had given up hope of finding him alive. Whether the parents still clung to any hope was a secret they kept to themselves behind the locked door of their frame combination store and apartment building. Mrs. Cash was understood to have obtained some sleep after an anxious vigil which brought her near collapse.

Crowds Nervous.

All Princeton was on edge. The crowds got out of hand when an exhausted member of the searching party fainted in the street. An ambulance clanged up and several hundred persons, brushing police

Treason Charged to Henlein By Leader of Czech League

Accusations Based on Interview Published in London Daily Mail.

PRAHA, June 2.—(UP)—A formal demand for the arrest and prosecution of Sudeten German Leader Konrad Henlein on charges of high treason was placed before the state's attorney tonight by a leader of the Czech National League.

Dr. Vlastimil Klima, delegate of the National League, which formerly was allied with the Czechoslovak National Democratic party in the national union government, based his charges of treason on a recent interview said to have been given by Henlein to Ward Price, correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

In the interview Henlein was quoted as saying that, although he sought a peaceful solution of the Sudeten demands for autonomy, the government's attitude might eventually lead to armed conflict.

Klima's charge was based on the government's law for defense of the republic.

'IMPORTANT DECISION' REACHED BY HITLER

BERLIN, June 2.—(UP)—Military circles reported tonight that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has reached a "decision of importance" as a result of almost daily conferences with the commanders-in-chief of his defense forces.

Although the Nazi press carried have been deprived of social opinion on thunderous attacks on the Czechoslovak government, accusing the Czechs of "insults against Hitler" as result of a purported Swastika flag incident, it was indicated that Der Fuehrer has momentarily turned his attention from Czechoslovakia to Spain.

There was nothing to indicate, however, whether Hitler and his leaders of the armed forces had reached a decision to send more Nazi aid to the Spanish Nationalists in order to speed up a final victory in the nearly two-year-old civil war.

For a week, it was revealed, Der Fuehrer has been in daily conference with such defense leaders as

POLITICAL TRADING CHARGED BY AVEN IN HEALTH DISPUTE

Commissioners Appoint Dr. Roy W. McGee in Face of Demands for Specially Trained Man.

STORM OF PROTEST RAISED BY DOCTORS

County 'Throwing Away' $400 a Month While He Is Trained, Officials Say

"Political trading" in the appointment of Dr. Roy W. McGee, 49, county physician, as acting Fulton county health officer was charged yesterday by Dr. C. C. Aven, president of the Fulton County Medical Society.

The society president said a storm of protest over selection of a man without proper qualifications for health officer had arisen within the ranks of the doctors' organization.

Dr. McGee was recommended for the post to succeed Dr. W. L. Gilbert, retired, by a vote of two to one yesterday morning in the board of health, which recommendation was unanimously confirmed by county commissioners yesterday afternoon.

Selection Opposed.

Dr. T. Bolling Gay, chairman of the board of health, opposed selection of Dr. McGee, or any other physician, until one with training in public health work could be obtained. J. A. Ragsdale, chairman of the county commission, and Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, the other two members of the health board, voted for Dr. McGee.

The county commissioners appointed Dr. S. C. Redd, formerly with the county, to succeed Dr. McGee as county physician. Dr. Gilbert is to continue as assistant public health officer.

Dr. Aven charged that in naming Dr. McGee acting public health officer, the county would be "throwing away" the $400 a month salary to be paid him while he is receiving training as a public health officer.

"Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, head of the state health department, has agreed to furnish $2,500 to pay for training a physician in public health work, and to supply an adequate man at the same salary to get the Fulton health department on its feet."

Gillis' Loss $15,000 As Fire Razes Home

DUBLIN, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—The county home of J. L. Gillis, of Soperton, member of the Georgia state highway board, was destroyed by fire today.

Gillis estimated the loss at nearly $15,000. W. L. Miller, chairman of the highway board, and Herman Watson, another board member, helped him carry some of the valuable furnishings to safety.

Watson and Miller were members of the party traveling with Governor E. D. Rivers through the farm markets of the state. The Governor went from the near-by home of James Fowler to offer his help.

Thos. H. Reed Named To Audit New Deal

CHICAGO, June 2.—(AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican program committee, announced today the appointment of Dr. Thomas H. Reed, of New York, as director of studies to be made for the committee's audit of New Deal policies.

Dr. Reed was given leave of absence from his duties as director of consultant service for the National Municipal League to delve into current affairs for material upon which the program committee would base its evaluation of the Roosevelt administration and propose a course of party policy.

Young Snite Meets Old and New Atlanta Friends

Frederick B. Snite Jr. met old and new Atlanta friends last night. The infantile paralysis victim, who has been confined in an "iron lung" more than two years, renews acquaintance with Frances Stewart (left) and Sara Smith, who gave him bouquets when he passed through this city last fall. Below, part of a group of children from Peoples Street Public school peer into Snite's observation car, after giving him flowers. The children have corresponded with the invalid for several months. Snite was en route from Miami to his home in Chicago. He is author of the school children's class motto: "Happiness Comes From Within."

AMERICAN MISSION IS JAPANESE FORT

SHANGHAI, June 3.—(Friday) (AP)—Dr. Fred P. Manget, medical missionary, of Newman, Ga., reported to the United States consulate general today that Japanese troops had occupied the Southern Methodist mission at Huchow, 40 miles north of Hangchow.

Dr. Manget has just arrived at Huchow after a dangerous trip with six Chinese male doctors and nurses through guerrilla-infested country from Hangchow. He had been in Hangchow since last November when he left his mission ahead of the Japanese advance.

He reported the church was damaged by fire and was being used as a crematory for Japanese soldiers, while the mission virtually had been converted into a fortress to repel guerrilla attacks.

Artillery had been employed within the compound, he said, and holes cut through the hospital walls were fitted with machine-guns.

Boys, Girls Greet Snite On Stop Here

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Frederick B. Snite Jr. met old and new Atlanta friends last night.

The young infantile paralysis victim, who has been confined in an "iron lung" for more than two years, paused briefly at Union station in his special car en route from Miami to his home in Chicago.

He was greeted by 35 children from Low 1 and 2 grades of Peoples Street school, who "adopted" snite last October when his train came through West End on the last lap of his trip from China to Miami.

Since then, Snite and his young friends—none older than 8 years—have exchanged holiday greetings and several letters.

The latest, and most thrilling, letter arrived Wednesday, when Snite wrote:

"Dear Children: In answer to

FARMERS INDORSE SOIL CONSERVING

CONYERS, Ga., June 2.—Partial returns from today's seven-county referendum revealed balloting landowners favor establishment of the proposed upper Ocmulgee soil conservation district, C. R. Bohannon, extension service soil conservationist, reported here tonight.

Ballots reported late tonight totaled 764 for the plan, and 475 against it.

The totals, as reported, were as follows: Clayton county, one precinct missing, 52 for, 28 against.

Gwinnett county, 226 for and 305 against.

Newton county, three precincts missing, 86 for and 26 against.

Rockdale county, complete, 135 for, 50 against.

Walton county, one precinct missing, 158 for, 18 against.

DeKalb county (only Phillips militia district voting), 27 for, 0 against.

Henry county, three precincts missing, 80 for, 48 against.

If the district's formation is approved, the state soil and conservation committee will proceed with the appointment of two supervisors and the official charting of the district. Three additional supervisors will then be chosen, and a program will be formulated for carrying out the provisions of the state soil conservation act.

The work to be undertaken would include the laying out of terrace lines, supervision of, construction and checking of grades and specifications; forestry improvement, reforestation, and seeding of eroded areas to thick-growing crops. Landowners' participation will be voluntary and without cost.

MAYOR CONDEMNS STOCKADE 'MESS'

Loses Fight, However, for Trained Director to 'Straighten Things Up.'

Calling the city stockade an "ungodly mess" and warning that "something terrible is going to happen out there," Mayor Hartsfield fought unsuccessfully yesterday for the creation of the post of director of city prisons to clean it up.

The mayor described "horrible" conditions at the city prisons as he urged the public works committee to recommend to council an ordinance setting up a director of prisons who would be a trained executive and welfare worker. The committee voted to advise the proposed ordinance, 3 to 1.

No Salvage Effort.

"We are making absolutely no effort in human salvage at the stockade," asserted Hartsfield. "We have no segregation of prisoners, and diseased and chronic offenders are kept in the same halls with boys or girls who have never been sentenced before."

"The short-term prison, such as the stockade, is the first line of battle in the effort to stop crime. We should have a man out there who can find out about the prisoners, why they are there, and what it would take to put them back on the straight and narrow path."

"I know there are hundreds of chronic offenders who just board out there most of the year, but there are also a number of boys

SIX TAKE STAND, TELL OF 'PAYOFFS'

After 10 Hours of Testimony State Rests Case Against Former Deputy.

After 10 hours of testimony in which six witnesses said they paid "protection" money to former Deputy Sheriff Gus H. Howard not to arrest them in illegal bootleg liquor activities, the state rested its case at 9:25 o'clock last night.

Testimony from defense witnesses will begin at 10 o'clock this morning. Testimony of "payoffs" was introduced by state's witnesses yesterday on all but one count of the nine-count indictment jointly charging Howard and Joe F. Schilling Sr., former deputy, with accepting bribes. The cases have been severed, the state electing to try Howard first.

"Hush Money."

The "hush money" was described in testimony as being given to Howard over a period of two years, Jimmie Roberts, yesterday's last witness, testified.

He paid Howard $50 a month from the fall of 1935 to the fall of 1936. He said during the "last few months" of the "payoffs" they were forced to pay $100 a month for "protection."

The state reserved the right to put Solicitor John A. Boykin on the stand today to clear up a date in the count charging Howard accepted a bribe from Walt Scoggins.

Julian Venable, a witness at the afternoon session, testified that he

Church Weddings' Eugenic Worth Praised as Aid to 'Stay Married'

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—Science today praised "the eugenic worth" of a formal church wedding.

Church marriages end in divorce less frequently than ceremonies performed by magistrates, the Eugenic Research Association was told in a paper prepared for delivery by Dr. Paul Popenoe, of Los Angeles.

"Since marriages that end in divorce have a very low fertility," Dr. Popenoe said, "it would appear eugenically worth while to pay more attention to promoting the success of desirable marriages by encouraging formal ceremonies."

Another speaker said the institution of divorce "represents a rising sense of self respect in marriage."

"There is ample evidence," said Dr. Ira S. Wile, of New York, "that divorce, regardless of personal effects, is socially advantageous, if not actually eugenic."

He said the proportion of divorced persons in institutions for the mentally diseased was far greater than for the single, married or widowed, indicating that the mentally diseased were unstable.

Dr. Wile said children apparently did not act as a check on divorce, although "it has been urged that the presence of children tends to hold marriage together."

LEADERS PREDICT CERTAIN APPROVAL OF PRIMING FUNDS

Shackles Removed From PWA Power Cash on Roosevelt Pledge To Curtail Competition.

BAN ON POLITICS IN WPA DEFEATED

Close Vote Marks Attempt To Prevent Poll Activity of Officials.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Senate leaders failed tonight to bring the administration relief bill to a vote, but predicted certain approval of the $3,422,000,000 measure tomorrow.

Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, the majority leader, abruptly ended the chamber's second night session on the bill in mid-evening when it became apparent that debate might continue for hours.

Barkley said he was confident the measure would be passed tomorrow. Another night session will be held if that is necessary to bring senate approval, he added.

Just previously, Barkley won a two-vote victory in a fight against an amendment by Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, restricting political activity by WPA administrative employees.

The Hatch proposal offered as an amendment to the spending-lending bill, was defeated, 39 to 37. Barkley vigorously opposed it, contending it would do nothing to prevent political activity by state employees.

PWA Fund Vote.

Earlier, the chamber rejected by a voice vote an amendment forbidding the use of PWA funds for the construction of utility plants which would duplicate existing privately owned systems.

It acted after Barkley had reported President Roosevelt opposed the restriction. Barkley said, however, that Mr. Roosevelt would allot no PWA funds for utility construction until municipalities had "in good faith" made a reasonable offer to buy out existing plants.

Earlier, the chamber overrode recommendations of its appropriations committee and voted an appropriation of $965,000,000 for the PWA.

The proposed PWA restriction was recommended by the appropriations committee as an amendment to the administration's spending-lending bill. Prior to the vote which killed the proposal, the senate rejected, 46 to 30, a compromise advanced by Senator Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut. The Maloney amendment provided:

Ask Retailer for Lamb Riblets

Lamb Riblets are a pleasing variety from the meat usually cut up for stew. When cooked in a casserole with vegetables, as shown, they lend themselves to an attractive and economical dish providing a well-balanced meal for both grown-ups and children. Lamb riblet casserole is a grand choice for one dish meals.

THREE MEALS A DAY.

By SALLY SAVER.

That stews and casserole dishes are economical dishes is one important reason for serving them frequently. Another reason is that they are great time-savers. Preparation of a meal, serving, and dishwashing are cut to the minimum, and they form a tempting way of providing a well-balanced meal for both adults and children.

One-Dish-Meal Contest.
Last week Sally Saver's Best Recipe Contest called for your favorite recipe for a one-dish meal and here are the winners:

Chartreuse of Pork Chops.
Broil over a very hot fire 4 chops from either the loin or the rack of pork, until they are well browned on the outside but not cooked through. Place these in the bottom of a casserole or baking dish, over them spread 2 cups of sauerkraut. On the top lay two potatoes pared and sliced. Sprinkle the whole with a little pepper and paprika—pour over all one cupful of water or stock; cover the dish and steam for one hour. Serve directly from the dish. Follow up, but only if you like some extra addition, for the dinner is complete in itself, with—

Salad of Red Apple Cups.—Cut bright red apples, scoop out the flesh, leaving the thin walls, remove cores, chop the apples and add an equal volume of chopped celery. Mix lightly with dressing and fill in the apple cups. Serve on tender heart leaves of lettuce. Potato dressing is the thing for this.

Potato Dressing.
Pare and boil or steam one-half pound of potatoes. This will mean about two potatoes of somewhat under medium size. Press them through a ricer when cooked, or mash lightly with a fork, and season with one-half teaspoonful each of salt and white pepper. While hot, add one beaten egg. The work should be done so quickly that the potato will be hot enough to slightly coagulate the egg. Add 4 tablespoonfuls of butter, beat all together and add the last thing, 2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar. A teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce or of tomato catsup may be added for additional flavoring, or from 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls of onion juice. Also paprika to tint the whole a light red may be used at your choice. This dressing will not keep and to be at its best it should be used the day it is made. It is very good with a celery salad or with an apple and celery salad.

SARAH GARRARD.
940 Woodland Ave., S. E., Atlanta, Ga.

Roman Holiday.
1-4 cup shortening
1 onion (chopped fine)
1 pound hamburger meat
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups cook spaghetti
1-1/2 cups tomatoes
3-4 cup of grated cheese
Fry onion in shortening, add meat and seasoning and cook five minutes. Put one cup spaghetti in baking dish, add meat, then rest of spaghetti, then tomatoes; cover with grated cheese. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer.

MRS. ROBERT CRAFT.
Scottsdale, Ga., P. O. Box 96.
Baked Tuna Fish
1 can tuna fish
2 hard-boiled eggs
1 dozen stuffed olives
3 tablespoons butter or oil
1-4 cup flour
1-2 cup grated cheese
1-1/2 cups milk

rest of spaghetti, then tomatoes; cover with grated cheese. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer.

ROSE LONG, MATE STOP HERE BRIEFLY

Daughter of Late Senator, Husband To Honeymoon in Europe.

Rose Long, daughter of the late United States Senator Huey P. Long, and her husband of less than a day, Dr. Omar W. McFarland, are on their way to Europe "to see everything there is to see," including Hitler, they said yesterday as she and her husband paused at Candler field on their honeymoon.

Braving lowering skies, the newlyweds broke their honeymoon flight to New York for a lunch at Candler field. They sailed for Europe last night.

The blue-eyed bride and the soft spoken groom talked of their romance and their wedding, which assembled the aristocracy of the late senator's political empire.

Married Wednesday.
They were married Wednesday night in Baton Rouge. The church was jammed with 1,200 invited guests, including Governor Richard W. Leche, state officials, members of the Louisiana legislature and political heirs of the bride's late father.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored at a wedding reception in the Governor's mansion, built by the late "Kingfish."

The marriage culminated a romance begun five years ago when both were students at the University of Wisconsin summer school.

Dated for Two Years.
"I was looking for someone just like her," Dr. McFarland said, smiling at his bride.

He said he had dated her steadily for two years, but Rose said not. "I had to study some," she said, adding that she had made an all "A" record in her courses at L. S. U.

The bride isn't at all reticent about her political career at the university. She was president of the Associated Women Students Group and vice president of the Co-ed Council. But she said her brother, Russell, recently elected head of the student body, was the real politician of the family.

In a private plane piloted by Lieutenant J. P. Frain, aviation instructor at L. S. U., and accompanied by his wife, the McFarlands left New Orleans early yesterday and arrived here shortly after noon, flying through a driving rain.

After their "six weeks or two months" in Europe, the couple will live in Baton Rouge.

Before taking off, a bystander asked Rose if they were going to Germany. She nodded her head.

"Do you plan to see Der Fuehrer?" she was asked.

"I'm going to see everything there is to see," she responded.

School To Give Evan P. Howell Memorial Today

A memorial program on the life of Evan P. Howell will be given at graduating exercises for 52 students of the Evan P. Howell school on Howell Mill road at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

George P. Whitman, attorney, will be principal speaker. Ray Gilbert will discuss the famous Georgian's ancestry; Robert Standridge, his early life; M. C. Pittman, his military life, and Hulseley Nash, his professional, business and public life.

Others on the program include George Camp, who will bring greetings; Jeanette Lewis, Margaret Addison, Marie Hanson, Bertha Nell Strother, Lois Wright, Audrey Crane, Harriette Earnest, and the Rev. George W. Barrett, who will pronounce the benediction.

Rose Long, Honeymooning, Stops for "Bite"

Mist and rain at Candler field failed to dampen the happy spirits of Dr. Osmy W. McFarland and his bride, the former Miss Rose Long, daughter of the late senator from Louisiana, as they paused here yesterday to refuel their plane and "grab a bite to eat." It was the first day of their honeymoon. Immediately after the picture was taken the newlyweds took off for Newark, N. J. They will sail this week end.

Method: In a buttered casserole place the tuna fish, broken into pieces, the hard-boiled eggs, sliced, and sliced olives. Make the cheese sauce by the following method: Melt the butter, slowly adding the flour and seasoning. Mix well and stir milk in slowly. Cook in the double boiler and when it begins to thicken add the grated cheese. Remove from fire and pour over the ingredients in the casserole. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with additional butter. Bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

This amount generously serves four and costs approximately 40 cents.

ATTRACTIVE VARIATION OF WELL-KNOWN STEW
The next time you decide to treat your family to lamb stew, ask your retailer for lamb riblets. To make riblets, the meat cutter removes the breast bone of the lamb, then cuts apart the ribs which make up the lamb breast. Riblets are among the less-demanded cuts of lamb, therefore economical, and they are rich in flavor and high in food value. They are a pleasing variation from the meat usually cut up for stews. They are nicely shaped and make a most tempting dish when served with vegetables.

2 pounds fresh green beans, or 1 can whole green beans
Brown in hot lard lamb riblets which have been seasoned with salt and pepper. All 1-2 cups of water, cover and simmer. When the meat is almost tender, add onions, carrots and beans. Add 4 tablespoons vinegar last half hour of cooking. If canned beans are used, add them about 15 minutes before serving. File ribs in middle of large platter and arrange vegetables in piles around the outside. One dish meals cooked in a casserole are extremely popular these days because they take so little preparation and make so little dish washing. A lamb riblet stew is a grand choice for the casserole. Serve it with a fresh fruit salad and hot muffins and not only do you have a nutritionally well-balanced meal, but one which will delight the family.

Lamb Riblets en Casserole.
Place uncooked vegetables in a greased casserole. Potatoes, carrots and onions make a good combination. Season these with salt and pepper. Partially cover with hot water. Lay lamb riblets on top, cover and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until done. Remove the cover during the last half hour of cooking so that the riblets will brown.

LITTLE SURPRISES
TEMPT YOUNG FOLK
It is a mistake to search around wildly for foods that are distinctly different each day. A very little change is sufficient to keep menus interesting... especially for the children.

All they ask is that familiar foods be dressed up a little bit each day. Their old friend, Mashed Potatoes, for example, can appear in a dozen different forms, and still be mashed potatoes. Serve them plain sometimes—but not always. Try varying their appearance by occasionally making them into patties and browning them quickly on both sides in hot butter. A little bit of finely minced parsley or onion softened in butter will give the patties an individual flavor.

Potato Varieties.
Or, whip mashed potatoes to fleecy whiteness, then sprinkle them with grated cheese and paprika, pile into a little baking dish and place under the broiler to brown lightly. These are delicious and nourishing.

Children never fail to hail potato craters with delight. These are merely mounds of mashed potato in which irregular wells have been made at the top. Into the depression put a tablespoon of sauce made by mixing together 1-2 cup of grated cheese, 1-4 cup left-over once paid Howard $300 to allow him to "take the fall" for a liquor charge placed against himself and Sam Dardarian, restaurant owner. A legal skirmish developed over this testimony. The defense claimed it was not admissible. Judge Paul S. Etheridge overruled the objection.

Venable testified he was given the money by Dardarian and instructed to pay it to Howard. Venable also in his testimony told of a liquor raid he and Schilling made at a hotel room and subsequent arrest of Dardarian a few minutes later in a taproom. Venable testified Schilling remained in the hotel room while Howard arrested Dardarian in the taproom.

Venable then testified as to the payment of the $300 "for taking the fall." He said the money was paid to Howard while Howard was sitting in his automobile on Myrtle street.

Identifies Check.

Dardarian later in the day testified along similar lines. He identified a $300 cancelled check which he said he cashed to get the money he gave Venable. The defense in its arguments during yesterday's hearing charged that Howard and Schilling were victims of "underworld vengeance." The arrests of bootleggers and underworld characters by the two former deputies led to an "underworld conspiracy" to "get the officers," defense attorneys claimed. The state on the other hand contended it would prove the ex-deputies conducted systematic "shakedowns" of bootleggers in Atlanta.

Paul Johnson testified he paid Howard $50 a month for about two years. These payments were later reduced to $30 a month, Johnson testified. David Townsend testified he paid Howard on several occasions.

George Campbell, operator of the Georgia Tavern, testified he paid Howard $100 following a raid on his establishment. Beulah Keyes and Orlando Austin, employees of Campbell, testified they saw Campbell and Howard in conversation inside the tavern the day following the raid.

"Just before Christmas four officers drove up in a car and parked outside the house," he said. "I talked to them and offered to buy them a new automobile to go away. Howard drove up on the other side of the street and came over and talked to the men while I sat in his car."

"He told me that it would cost $1,000 but that everything would be all right and we drove up to East avenue and Boulevard."

Mrs. Edgar and Edna Mae Edgar, wife and sister of the witness, testified they lived with him at the East avenue house. They said they saw the officers and Howard outside and watched Edgar and Fred Daniels as they loaded the whisky in two trucks for transfer to another storehouse. The transfer was made after Edgar, Howard and the officers had conferred, they said.

Twelve of These Students Have Gone to School Together Seven Years

Going to school together for seven years. Twelve of these students have been and were graduated from East Lake school yesterday. They will attend different classes in junior high schools. From left to right, front row, are Frances Tyler, Audrey Andrews and Barbara Crafts; second row, Virginia Crafts, Frances Swanson, Martha Kelley, Frances Davies and Lillian Richards; back row, Frank Murray, Robert Sharkey, Carey Phillips, Fred Stillwell, Bob Troy and Bobby Farrar. Frances Tyler and Lillian Richards are the only two pupils in the group who did not begin in a kindergarten class at the school in 1931. Seven years isn't such a long time, after they have passed, say they all,

"Log Rolling" Charge. He charged the city prison personnel is always "telling tales on each other," and that "log rolling and politics" have confused the situation for months.

He asked the power to appoint a non-political, trained prison administrator at a salary of $2,400 a year to "straighten things up out there."

Only Councilman George Lyle, chairman of the committee, voted for Hartsfield's proposal, while Councilman John A. White was recorded as "present but not voting." Aldermen Robert Carpenter, G. Dan Bridges and J. Glover Hailey voted no.

Declines Control. Hailey and Bridges sought to place the city prisons under the supervision of Clarke Donaldson, city construction chief, but Donaldson asserted he did not want it, explaining that five years ago the council took it away from his department in order to discharge Tom Morris, then an official.

The committee adopted a resolution asking an appropriation of $18,000 additional for streets in order to participate more in federal street paving programs. Donaldson said many dirt streets in the city could be paved if the city would furnish the material. The WPA would do the work, he said.

Donaldson was asked to investigate leasing an asphalt plant for the city. He will also make a report on the cost of furnishing gas from the Intrenchment Creek disposal plant to city prisons for heating and cooking purposes. He estimated it would cost $10,000 and save $7,000 a year.

CHURCHILL BLASTS AGAINST DICTATORS

BIRMINGHAM, England, June 2.—(AP)—Rebellious tory Winston Churchill appealed today for a world-wide front to combat the "volcanic forces" of Europe's dictators.

"Kind words are of no use" with dictators, Churchill told a League of Nations' union meeting here. "We and other countries stand in great danger."

Engagement 'Not Yet,' Says Eleanor Powell. HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—(AP)—Eleanor Powell answered "not yet" today to a report she and Abe Lyman are engaged.

The dancer admitted Bandman Lyman telephoned her from Washington, D. C., a night or two ago about the matter of becoming engaged. She says she hasn't made up her mind yet.

"Abe's coming out here in July," she said. "After we've gone around together for awhile I—I mean, we—will decide about a formal engagement."

12 Graduates at East Lake School Together From Kindergarten Days

Class Originally Numbered 30; Five More Are Scheduled To Be Graduated Next February; All Have Made Good Records.

Twelve students, who have been in school together since kindergarten days, were graduated from the high sixth grade at East Lake Grammar school yesterday.

Each was determined to continue "the good records," which Mrs. R. P. Jones, principal of the school, said they had made in the grammar school. They heard praise from both their first-grade teacher, Miss Eva Richardson, and from their last teacher, Mrs. Ruth Shearer.

The kindergarten class originally numbered 30 pupils. They were taught by Mrs. B. G. Fugitt, who was not present at the exercises, held in the school auditorium. Five other pupils of the original class, who entered a half-year later than the honored dozen, will graduate in February next year.

In addition to the 12 who have been together since 1931, 16 other students took part in the class day exercises. Parents and friends were in attendance.

The 12 include Frances Swanson, Martha Kelley, Carey Phillips, Fred Stillwell, Bobby Sharkey, Virginia Crafts, Barbara Crafts, Frank Murray, Bobby Farrar, Audrey Andrews, Frances Andrews, Frances Davies and Bob Troy. The five who have been with the group for six and a half years and who are scheduled for graduation February next year include Frederick Branch, Claude Hopkins, Martha Miller, Raymond Huey and Eloise White.

tomatoes or chili sauce, salt and paprika to taste. Place the craters under the broiler until they brown lightly and the sauce bubbles and flows down the sides.

Spinach. Spinach will seem more inviting if for a change it is made into a little nest and filled with diced tongue in cream. Or make the spinach into flat patties, mixing it first with few bread crumbs and two tablespoons of minced onion softened in butter. Form into small flat cakes, dip in crumbs and fry to a light brown in hot water.

Desserts. Jellied salads and desserts are, of course, the delight of all children, especially if they appear in different fancy forms. You can buy sets of six or more clever little molds for a very small sum, and you cannot measure their value to you in helping to keep children interested in the same custards, desserts and salads which seem so new when varied in color, flavor or form.

It does not take a great deal of time to put on these fine finishing touches which make food such an intriguing subject to the little folks. Now and then cut their whole-wheat bread into fancy shapes with your 10-cent set of cookie cutters. Make a jolly Cheshire cat with a grin of cream cheese, two specks of cheese for a nose, two larger spots of cheese with raisin or currant centers for its eyes. These sandwiches, with a dish of stewed fresh cherries, will seem like a wonderful feast. The more economical the menu, the more we should try to make it attractive in ways that add little, if anything, to its cost. I think these few suggestions will help you to invent many others of a like nature... little tricks that will add much pleasure to your little child's meals.

your letter, we shall be through Atlanta some time Thursday afternoon. We are leaving Miami at 10 o'clock Wednesday night."

The children, arms filled with magnolia blossoms for the young man who gave them their class motto of "Happiness Comes from Within," were on the platform when Snite's train pulled into the station.

Snite's father, Frederick B. Snite Sr., Chicago banker, came out to greet his son's little friends. "Thanks for coming," he said. "It's awfully nice of you to bring these flowers for Fred."

Blossoms Sent Inside. Meanwhile, the children crowded onto the rear platform of the observation car. Snite, smiling and tanned of face, looked into the mirror above his respirator in front of him which reflected the faces of the youngsters who peered through the observation car window.

Several of the blossoms were sent inside the car. Snite told his father to thank the children with all my heart.

While the children glimpsed their hero, Sara Smith, of 713 Dill avenue, and Frances Stewart, of 1308 Stewart avenue, doctored white masks covering the lower part of their faces and went into the car, to renew acquaintance with the stricken youth.

Miss Smith had given Snite a bouquet of flowers when he passed in Atlanta last October, on his way to Miami. The two young women chatted with Snite several minutes, while the elder Snite acted as host to the children on the car's platform.

"Great Influence."

Mrs. B. S. Lovelace, Low 1 teacher; Miss Lucy Arnold, Low 2 teacher, and Mrs. Annie S. Johnson, principal of the school, who were in charge of the children, told the elder Snite his son had been "a great influence for good in the children's lives."

"Many of them learned to read and to write just by corresponding with your son," said Mrs. Lovelace. "Seeing him tonight is a great experience for them. The class motto he gave them, has really meant much to them."

Snite's special consisted of the observation car containing the "iron lung," or metal respirator. Besides his father, passengers on the train were five nurses, two orderlies, one doctor and Dennis Scanlan, designer of the respirator.

The special was attached to a regular passenger train for the return trip to Chicago. Snite's father said his son had enjoyed the vacation in Florida, and that the trip had been a good one.

Many of the children were accompanied by their parents. Snite smiled broadly as the train pulled out, the youngsters waving and shouting farewells.

POLITICAL TRADING CHARGED BY AVEN

Dr. Roy W. McGinty Appointed Acting County Public Health Officer.

operating efficiently while the physician is in training," Dr. Aven said.

"However, in appointing Dr. McGee as acting public health officer, the county is wasting $400 a month while he studies," he asserted. "The state intended to train the man before appointment."

Superintendent Wells said Dr. McGee plans to attend the public health classes of Johns Hopkins University beginning October 5, and that if the state would not furnish the money, the acting health officer would "pay his own expenses," to get the necessary training.

Dr. McGee has been a county physician for a number of years, administering to convicts and persons in the custody of the county. Dr. Aven asserted McGee is Chairman Ragsdale's personal physician and charged that "politics" caused him to be named. Both Dr. Aven and Dr. Gay declared they had nothing to say against Dr. McGee personally. They said they believed the county health officer should have had training in sanitation, disease prevention and other aspects of public health service before becoming public health officer.

Dr. Gay said it was his opinion Dr. McGee will prove satisfactory to the medical society if he obtains proper public health training as soon as possible.

The health board chairman, who was appointed by the grand jury, pointed out that both the Reed and Blankenship surveys of the health situation in Fulton county called for a trained public health officer, accredited by the United States Public Health Service.

Numerous civic organizations, including the medical society, the Fifth District Dental Society, the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and the Kiwanis Club, had urged by resolutions that the commissioners select such a man.

Superintendent Wells reported that only two persons had made applications for the job. Dr. McGee was selected, he said, because the physician had served the county for 15 years and was acquainted with problems of Fulton county.

commission declared that McGee will attend the Johns Hopkins public health work courses next fall.

The state health department had offered $5,000 annually to aid in the health work if a qualified man was chosen and a health program inaugurated, it was said.

Fund Status Doubtful. Dr. Aven said it is doubtful now if the county will receive this fund.

The county commissioners, in confirming Wells' and Ragsdale's recommendation of Dr. McGee, adopted a resolution naming him acting public health officer until he receives the public health training, whereupon he would be named health officer.

Dr. McGee resides in Ben Hill.

RELIEF BILL VOTE SCHEDULED TODAY

vided a system of compulsory arbitration under which cities and utilities would agree on prices at which cities could buy existing privately owned plants. Senator George and Russell, of Georgia, voted against the amendment.

The two proposals came to a vote after five hours' debate which found Barkley and other administration stalwarts lining up against them.

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, and Senator Schwellenbach, Democrat, Washington, denounced Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of utility executives.

It was Gadsden who appeared before the appropriations committee to urge that some restriction be placed on the extent to which funds could be used for duplicating existing plants. Other utility spokesmen later endorsed the amendment approved by the appropriations group.

Bill Totals $3,422,000,000. Including amendments tacked on during the day, the bill totaled $3,422,000,000, compared with $3,247,000,000 recommended by the appropriations committee and $3,154,000,000 voted in the house.

The senate rejected, 56 to 17, an attempt by Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, to eliminate the "pump-priming" features of the bill. Included in these are funds for public works.

Asserting the "greatest need" was for relief under the Works Progress Administration, Lodge had proposed increasing WPA funds by $500,000,000, against $1,425,000,000 now provided in the bill.

Appealing for his amendment, Lodge said that in New York there were 139,000 persons on relief and 103,000 "equally employable people not on relief." In Cleveland, he added, WPA relief rolls topped 28,000 while 64,500 "deserving cases" were not on relief.

Long Utility Debate. The utility debate consumed most of the day, however, and interest centered on Barkley's statement of administration power policy.

The majority leader said he, Speaker Bankhead and Representative Rayburn, house majority leader, had discussed the proposed restriction with President Roosevelt recently and had decided tentatively on a modified form of the amendment.

But, Barkley said, it later was decided that even a modified restriction would "bring about much litigation in the courts."

"In view of these circumstances," he continued, "it has been thought best not to offer the amendment."

The amendment which had been considered tentatively, Barkley said, would have required municipalities to offer a "fair price" for private utility properties before PWA funds could be allocated for the construction of duplicating facilities.

PWA Deadline Extended. Late in the day, the senate adopted on a voice vote an amendment by Senator Bone, Democrat, Washington, extending from next January to March 1 the deadline by which PWA projects can be started under the pump priming program.

While the senate pushed the spending-lending measure toward passage, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau suggested that congress should give the President a free hand in determining how funds should be spent under the relief program.

The house had decided to vote appropriations directly to government agencies, authorizing the President to approve or veto projects. Under former relief measures, the executive has had authority to allocate funds among various agencies.

"In the present situation," Morgenthau said, "where we do not expect congress to meet again until next January and do not know whether the economic situation will get better or worse, the wise thing to do would be to give the President the right, as he had in other bills, to transfer funds from one title to another in order to take care of the situation."

PAYNE ASKS PROBE IN RADIO MONOPOLY

Charges FCC Influenced by Powerful Lobby.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP) Commissioner George Henry Payne, of the feud-wrecked Federal Communications Commission, charging that certain of his colleagues had been influenced by a powerful radio lobby, urged congress today to investigate monopoly in the broadcasting industry.

Appearing before the house rules committee, Payne declined to elaborate his charges until the group meets in executive session next Tuesday but he pleaded with them to report favorably the Connery resolution for an investigation into the radio broadcasting field.

The senate audit and control committee recently reported a similar resolution introduced by Senator White, Republican, Maine, calling for a $25,000 senatorial inquiry into the commission and the entire radio field. It is pending before the upper chamber.

aside, stamped to see whether it was the Cash boy."

Hoover held a press conference at Miami 25 miles north of here, but limited his comment to the observation that this farming region was the worst country in which his men ever hunted. He said all persons questioned so far had appeared voluntarily but declined to disclose how many there were or give their names.

The volunteer searchers turned in a number of articles culled from the second day of beating the woods and fields. Among them were two complete convict outfits, but Sheriff Coleman expressed doubt they had any connection with the kidnaping.

Town Armed Camp. Little Princeton, a village of 600, resembled an armed camp as the forces in khaki hunting togs and veterans' uniforms, many wearing pistols, milled through the streets. The Red Cross set up field kitchens to feed them.

A fleet of 65 boats covered 175 miles of Biscayne bay shoreline east of here and 251 miles of here-gates canals. A crew of divers, one a woman, extended the search to streams and 31 water filled limestone pits. Navy planes and private planes including one piloted by Ismael Cash, cousin of the kidnaped child, flew low over the region.

Reports came from many parts of the country of suspicious automobiles carrying children believed to resemble the Cash youngster. At Oneida, N. Y., state police sought two women who took a small boy dressed in sleeping clothes to a physician for treatment of a sore throat. Maryland police hunted a Florida car containing two men and a screaming child seen near Bethesda. At Lakeland, Fla., authorities tried to find a man and woman with a small boy traveling in an old coupe who aroused suspicions.

TWO SONS KILLED, TEACHER FOLLOWS

Led His Boys to Barn To Shoot Rats.

NEW ALBANY, Miss., June 2. (AP)—Sheriff Rogers said tonight John C. Spencer, about 45, Union county school teacher and farmer, ended his life this morning after shooting and killing his two young sons at their farm home near Enterprise.

Spencer asked his boys, Derol, 12, and Lee, 9, and his wife, to accompany him to the barn "to shoot some rats," the sheriff said he was told by Mrs. Spencer.

Declining and remaining at the farmhouse, Mrs. Spencer heard a series of shots, the sheriff said, and later discovered the bodies of the trio.

Thighs Those of Mrs. Pogany—Says Connie

Will Pogany, the artist, plans to stick to his art in the matter of Constance Bennett's red fingernails. He told a Hollywood court jury this in his suit against the blonde actress for $3,500, his price for a portrait of her which she says is too much and won't pay. "Miss Bennett wanted a few alterations," Pogany testified. "So I went to see her but she wasn't in. Her secretary told me the fingernails should be red, something should be cut off the waist-line, the hairline should be different, the thigh was a little fat and there was something about the eyes."

Thighs of Wife On Pogany's Oil, Connie Charges

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(AP)—With a fresh gardenia in her pert black hat, Constance Bennett took the witness stand again today to resume the battle of the thighs.

Actress Bennett testified that when Artist Willy Pogany painted a portrait of her, the thighs in same were those of Mrs. Pogany. She contends, therefore, that the painting does not represent her and so she is fighting his suit for $3,500 which he says is due in payment for the portrait.

At the same time, Miss Bennett told the superior court jury of nine women and three men that art terms are so much Greek to her and then plunged into details of what else she thinks is the matter with the Pogany oil.

The possibility loomed that the jury may hear some testimony from thigh experts. Miss Bennett's counsel said he is considering calling a number of artists to testify as to the proportions of La Bennett's flesh and blood thighs and those depicted in the painting.

WORK IS RUSHED ON ATHENS PROJECT

New Classroom Building
Will Be Equipped for Audio-Visual Study.

Construction is well under way on the $130,000 classroom building now being erected at the University of Georgia in Athens, according to an announcement made by Chancellor S. V. Sanford.

"An increase in the enrollment at the university of over 1,000 students since the state board of regents assumed control in 1932 makes the construction of this building imperative," said Chancellor Sanford.

In 1933, the enrollment was 2,101, compared with 3,178 in 1937. In the 1937 summer school, there were 2,089 students, of which 416 were graduate students.

The building is a three-story brick fire-resistant modern structure. Several of the large classrooms are equipped for audio-visual instruction. Under this arrangement, students may see pictures of the topic under discussion with word explanation similar to a modern picture show.

He said, "This is simply an improved method of teaching, and will be used to supplement classroom instruction."

The university was one of the first colleges of the south to install this new method of teaching. Thirty buildings already have been completed in the university system since the organization of the state board of regents. Twenty buildings are now under construction. Sixteen applications are on file in Washington and await the approval of allotments by President Roosevelt. They are for additional buildings at the various units of the university system. The construction is financed with funds from PWA, WPA and the regents.

Drawing of New Classroom Building at University

Here is the architect's conception of the new Arts and Sciences building, now under construction on the University of Georgia campus in Athens at a cost of approximately $130,000. The structure, Chancellor S. V. Sanford states, is of brick and is fire-resistant. It will provide a number of new classrooms, several of which will be equipped with apparatus for audio-visual instruction—one of the newest trends in educational science. This is but one of 20 new university system buildings now under construction in the state. Applications for 16 different federal allotments for other buildings are on file in Washington, awaiting approval.

Entry Is Contested in Race for Deen Post

L. L. Patten Paid Fee After Deadline, Committee Official Says.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—Probability of a contest over qualification for the eighth district congressional race developed today when L. L. Patten, of Lakeland, announced he was in the race despite a ruling by the district Democratic executive committee secretary that his entry fee had not been paid in time.

Patten said the deadline set by state and district committees was noon, central standard time. Committee Secretary W. Ralph Smith said Patten handed him his entrance fee at 12:30 p. m., eastern standard time. Smith said the deadline set by the district committee, of which Patten is chairman, was noon, eastern standard time, Wednesday.

Smith said he gave Patten a letter stipulating the hour of his declaration as a candidate, in the event of contest before the executive committee.

"Mr. Patten did indicate the day previous his intention of entering the race," Smith said.

A scramble to qualify developed when Representative Braswell Deen announced he would not campaign for re-election against the Rev. C. P. Watson, of Ocala, his only announced opponent at that time.

YOUTH HERE WINS NAVAL CADETSHIP

William R. Brewster Jr.
Places Fourth in Competition.

William R. Brewster Jr., Georgia Military Academy honor graduate, will enter the United States Naval Academy this month as fourth-place winner in nationwide competition which grew from a plan instigated by his grandfather, Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of G. M. A., nearly 25 years ago.

Although only 16 years old, Brewster more than held his own in a contest which attracted the cream of the country's honor military preparatory schools as well as students of six colleges and universities, including Georgia Tech, which have naval units.

There were 20 vacancies to be filled and about 60 picked students trying for them. When the results were finally announced, it was found that the G. M. A. applicant was not only in the first 20 but had ranked only a fraction of a point below the high man.

Up until three years ago, there was no such thing as a national competition for entering Annapolis. And that's where Colonel Woodward's idea enters the picture.

Back in 1914, seeking to work more closely with the War Department, he assembled the heads of the country's military schools and as an outgrowth of the meeting, the American Association of Military Colleges and Schools was formed.

Subsequently, as an indirect result, the R. O. T. C. was placed in operation. In addition, the War Department agreed to award five cadetships at West Point to be rotated among military preparatory schools with an "honor" rating.

For years the plan functioned smoothly, then a rift developed among members of the association. Again at the instigation of Colonel Woodward, a committee was appointed to smooth things out by asking an increase in cadetships. The result was a bill passed with the help of the Georgia congressional delegation which increased the West Point openings from five to 10 and also created 20 openings at Annapolis for which outstanding students could compete each year.

That was three years ago. Last year, a G. M. A. cadet competed for the first time and won one of the coveted places. And this year's successful applicant from G. M. A. was the colonel's own grandson.

Four other G. M. A. cadets from this year's graduating classes also won places. Lynn Sefford, of Anna, Ill.; Wallace B. Frank, of Louisville, Ky.; and William Mulroy, of South Norwalk, Conn., will report to West Point in July. All three won appointments by competing in their congressional districts and then passed entrance examinations.

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Marion L. Boswell, commander of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, issued a statement yesterday thanking all those who contributed to the success of the first grand state military ball at the city auditorium Monday night. Proceeds of the ticket sales will be applied to the cost of the post's proposed new clubhouse in Piedmont park.

Because of conflicting engagements and exercises of other patriotic societies, McWhorter Miller, commander of Camp John B. Gordon, Sons of Confederate Veterans, has announced that the dinner scheduled for today in honor of Jefferson Davis' birthday, has been postponed until next week.

Evelyn Louise Flowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Flowers of 1000 North College street, College Park, will receive her bachelor of arts degree from the University of Kentucky at exercises to be held tonight in Lexington. She is a graduate of Russell High school.

Home-coming Day will be observed Sunday, June 12, at McDonald Memorial Baptist church, at which a special memorial service for deceased members of the church will be held, the Rev. William L. Ross, pastor of the church, announced yesterday.

Georgia's tax system will be discussed by Dr. R. F. Brooks, of the University of Georgia, tonight at a dinner of the co-ordinating committee of the citizens' fact-finding movement at the Piedmont hotel.

Joe Ray, son of J. W. Ray, chief clerk in the office of Comptroller Graham West, was injured last night when his bicycle ran into the side of an automobile. He was taken to Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital, suffering from a possible skull fracture and other injuries.

ECUADOR AND PERU REPORTED IN CLASH

Two Soldiers Killed by Gun-boats in Long-Disputed Jungle Area.

QUITO, Ecuador, June 2.—(AP)—Semi-official advice today said two Ecuadorian soldiers were killed and a lieutenant was wounded when three Peruvian gunboats fired on an Ecuadorian garrison.

The incident occurred along the river Aguarico in the northeastern portion of an area whose ownership long has been disputed by Peru and Ecuador.

The cabinet met three times today to consider the incident. Unofficially, it was said the Ecuadorian minister to Peru had been instructed to demand an explanation.

One conference at the foreign office was attended by the Peruvian minister and a representative of the United States legation.

(For more than 100 years Peru and Ecuador have been at odds over a vast area of jungle land sweeping eastward from the Pacific Andes.)

(The area, approximately the size of New York state, is inhabited chiefly by Indians. Few white men have penetrated the thick forests.)

Windsors Happy On Eve of Their 1st Anniversary

ANTIBES, France, June 2.—(AP)—The wandering Windsors reached the eve of their first wedding anniversary tonight happy, busy and apparently ready to settle down for a long stay on the Riviera.

The Duke and Duchess were supervising the decorations of their new home, Chateau de la Croe, with indications they may stay longer than the two years they have leased it.

It was possible they might even buy it from Sir Pomeroy Burton, American-born retired editor who became a British subject.

The abdicated British monarch and his wife, American-born Wallis Warfield, seemed radiant despite the vicissitudes since last June 3 when they were married. Their only concern seemed to be over the delay in remodeling their own home.

Although the duchess has been impatiently urging the men to hurry she has had little success prevailing upon them to forfeit their two-hour midday rest.

So it will be about three weeks before the house is ready. But the Windsors are content.

Warns Women Against Copying Men's Vices

"Unfashionable" means to a woman what the word "illegal" means to a man," declared Dr. Herman L. Turner, of Atlanta, in an address to students of Shorter College, Rome, in a vespers service. "Too many women have copied the vices of men rather than their virtues," he said in stressing the fact that women "are the keepers of the gates of civilization." Dr. Turner is shown here with Miss Ellen Bradshaw, of West Point, Shorter College "Y. W." president.

South To Honor Jefferson Davis, Most Tragic Figure of Lost Cause

Southern states will pause to commemorate the birthday today of Jefferson Davis, the Confederacy's first and only President. The Carolinas, Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Texas will signalize the event with closed capitols or banks.

At Jackson, Mississippians planned a tableau dedicating a Jefferson Davis memorial highway. A new concrete roadway from the Tennessee line to Beauvoir on the gulf coast was recently designated by the legislature. Beauvoir was Davis' home.

Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owen, director of the Alabama History Department, pointed out the observances should give impetus to a drive for a $20,000 monument at the Confederacy's seat, Montgomery.

The Georgia capitol will be closed. Tennesseans technically will celebrate Confederate Memorial Day. The United Daughters of the Confederacy is sponsoring a movement to have the day observed as a dual holiday.

'F. D. (eficit)' Roosevelt Is Attacked by Fish
WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Representative Fish, Republican, New York, told the house today the quickest way to restore business confidence would be to "get rid of Franklin Deficit Roosevelt."

Fish said the two things wrong with the country, were the "destruction of confidence and Franklin Deficit Roosevelt." "Get rid of the latter and the former will disappear very quickly," he added.

JAPANESE YIELD TO U. S. DEMANDS

American Property in China
Is Returned; Businessmen
Back at Posts.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—With a swiftness astonishing in modern diplomacy, Japan gave in along most of the line today to United States demands for restitution of American property in China and return of American businessmen and missionaries to their former posts.

Japan began to act within a few hours after the receipt of the strong American note announced yesterday and delivered Tuesday.

Her first step, announced in a telegram from American Consul General Frank P. Lockhart at Shanghai, was to agree Tuesday to the return to Nanking of American missionaries formerly resident there. Lockhart said 10 passes had been issued for this purpose.

The second step was the restoration Wednesday of the two high schools of the American Southern Baptist Mission in the Chapei district of Shanghai.

These were formally turned back to the mission by Japanese authorities in the presence of the treasurer and two other representatives of the mission, representatives of the Japanese military and consular authorities, and a representative of the American consul general.

The property lies within the zone where the Chinese and Japanese battled during the initial hostilities in and around Shanghai. It was first occupied by Chinese forces; they were driven out by the Japanese, who took it over.

Third Step.
The third step, reported in a telegram from Ambassador Grew at Tokyo, was the announcement made today by the Japanese foreign office that Japan is sending an international committee to visit the Japanese-controlled area in central China.

The purpose is "not only to investigate the situation relating to the occupancy of American property but also to formulate means for satisfactory adjustment of the situation."

This, according to the state department, refers particularly to the representations made by Ambassador Grew with regard to the $1,000,000 University of Shanghai, owned by the northern and southern Baptist mission boards and now occupied by Japanese troops.

SENATOR SMITH FILES.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)—Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, today forwarded a check for $1,000 to the South Carolina Democratic executive committee as his entrance fee in the party's senatorial primary in August.

NEW SHIP SUBSIDY COMPROMISE READY

Joint Congressional Committee Heads Predict Passage of Legislation.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(P)—New ship subsidy legislation, aimed at restoring the American merchant marine to world eminence, won approval of a joint congressional committee today.

It represented a compromise between separate bills passed previously by the house and senate. Chairman Copeland, Democrat, New York, of the senate commerce committee, and Chairman Bland, Democrat, Virginia, of the house merchant marine committee, joined in predicting enactment of the compromise measure at this session of congress.

The conference committee eliminated senate provisions permitting the Maritime Commission to have subsidized vessels built in foreign yards under some circumstances.

Under these provisions the Maritime Commission could have awarded contracts to foreign yards if bids of domestic yards were double or nearly double foreign quotations.

The conference group agreed that the commission might reject domestic bids found to be "unreasonable, excessive or collusive." After such rejection the commission could negotiate or contract with domestic yards in an effort to lower costs.

House conferees agreed to a senate provision authorizing creation of a Maritime Labor Board. This board could mediate and arbitrate maritime disputes, but only when both sides requested it to do so.

The three members of the board, receiving $10,000 each annually, would be requested to suggest to congress before March 1, 1940, a complete and permanent system for adjusting such disputes.

ACTS TO BE CHOSEN FOR KIDDIE REVUE

Annual Show Opens June 10 for Benefit of Crippled Children.

Annually, the trained agility of some 150 Atlanta children, expert dancers and entertainers, aids the less fortunate youngsters at the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in the presentation of the Atlanta Kiddie Revue.

Jane Withers and Dixie Dunbar have appeared on this program in past years.

The tenth edition of the Atlanta Kiddie Revue will open Friday, June 10, at Loew's Grand theater under sponsorship of the Atlanta Masonic Club. It is a benefit for the milk fund of the Scottish Rite hospital.

This revue, with its some 200 talented children, will be presented with no advance in the usual admission price, and in addition to the Grand's film fare, "Hold That Kiss."

From the hundreds of available acts, for which the youngsters have undergone months of rehearsal and training, about 30 will be chosen next week to appear in the hour's entertainment.

Never To Want for Milk If Masonic Drive Succeeds

These youngsters, and others like them at the Scottish Rite hospital, will never want for milk if the Atlanta Masonic Club's annual milk fund drive is a success. Augmenting the drive will be the Masonic Club's annual Kiddie Revue, featuring 150 of the city's most talented juvenile entertainers, which will open next Friday night at Loew's Grand theater. From left to right above are John H. Woods, secretary of the Atlanta Masonic Club; J. L. Hutson, 9-year-old inmate at the hospital; Horace Gunter, 10, also confined in the hospital, and Samuel Rothberg, vice president of the club, "talking things over."

EARLE HEARTENED BY GUFFEY PLEDGE

Jubilantly Foresees 'Certain Victory' Over Republicans in November.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 2.—(P)—Senator Joseph F. Guffey's pledge of support for the Democratic nominees today closed one breach in Pennsylvania's New Deal ranks and brought from Governor George H. Earle a prediction of "certain victory" over the Republicans in November.

Guffey verified State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence's assertion that the bitter primary split between the two leaders had been ended.

Guffey made no mention of CIO Chief John L. Lewis, with whom he teamed in backing the unsuccessful gubernatorial candidacy of Thomas Kennedy.

Lewis, Kennedy and former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, also defeated in the Democratic governorship run, have made no commitments on their future course.

Guffey rejoined the state committee forces that supported Charles Alvin Jones, the gubernatorial winner, in a statement made in an interview at Washington.

HORACE MOORE JR. GIVEN SCHOLARSHIP

Johns Hopkins Award Goes Only to Five.

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 2.—Horace Moore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Moore, has been awarded a scholarship to Johns Hopkins University, where he will study medicine, it is revealed today.

He was a member of the 1938 Waycross High school graduating class. He will enter Johns Hopkins in September.

The scholarship is awarded only five high school students of the United States, only two of whom may live outside the city of Baltimore.

Several weeks ago young Moore was designated as the science award winner for the current year in Waycross High school, in recognition of distinguished work in the science department. He has served as assistant in both the physics and chemistry departments. He also has been active in other student affairs, appearing in the cast of the senior play and presenting the prophecy at the senior banquet.

6,000-YEAR-OLD LAW INVOKED IN COURT

Macon Kosher Butcher Is Freed in Sunday Sale.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—(P)—Falling back on a Jewish religious law 6,000 years old, B. Yelin, Macon kosher butcher, came clear today in recorder's court on a charge of operating his shop on Sunday in defiance of city ordinance and state law.

The case against Yelin was dismissed by Recorder George M. Nottingham when the butcher testified he observed Saturday as his Sabbath and sold only to orthodox Jews on Sunday.

At Mr. Yelin's side during the trial stood H. Marshall and Louis Schwartz, members of his congregation at a local synagogue. They corroborated his statements.

"You will force me to buy non-kosher meats and to violate my religion," Mr. Marshall told the recorder in pleading that the store not be closed.

A long discussion of Jewish dietary law first promulgated thousands of years ago and still observed by orthodox Jews featured the hearing.

The case against Yelin was docketed last Sunday morning.

NLRB ORDERS JOBS FOR SUB WORKERS

Rules Electric Boat Company Must Reinstate 125 Sit-Down Strikers.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(UP) Overruling contentions that the men "had endangered the national defense," the National Labor Relations Board tonight ordered the Electric Boat Company, Groton, Conn., which builds most of the navy's submarines, to reinstate 125 sit-down strikers.

The men, members of the CIO's Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, were discharged February 23, 1937, after a one-day sit-down and later were convicted and fined $3 each for violating a Connecticut trespass statute.

The NLRB held that the company's claim the men had "endangered the national defense by passing through restricted areas" within the plant "would not bear scrutiny."

NLRB ASKS COURT TO VOID FORD RULING

COVINGTON, Ky., June 2.—(P) The National Labor Relations Board asked the sixth United States circuit court of appeals today to set aside its order of May 9, denying the board the right to withdraw a decree against the Ford Motor Company and asked that the case be returned to its jurisdiction.

Regional Director Philip G. Phillips said in Cincinnati the motion was based on the United States supreme court's decision Tuesday in the Republic Steel case.

Paradise, sergeant-at-arms; Claude E. Anthony, captain; A. E. Porter, historian; and F. H. Williams (re-elected), W. L. Erwin and W. Lee Bradberry, executive committee-men.

The meeting was attended by Logan Kelly, district commander.

LOWNDES EXEMPTIONS TO TOTAL $1,500,000

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 2.—The Lowndes county tax board, now reviewing returns from property owners, estimates from present figures that claim exemptions filed under the new law will affect the county tax values approximately 15 per cent, with a reduction in taxes of about $1,500,000.

On real estate holdings, 2,150 claims have been filed, but the board has no figures yet on the number of personal property claims listed. The board estimates, however, that despite the losses through exemptions, the revenues will be about the same, due to

JAPANESE FORCING RIVER FORD TO AID BELEAGUERED UNITS

Artillery Covers Relief Column Crossing Yellow River To Reach Doihara.

SHANGHAI, June 3.—(Friday.) (P)—Under cover of artillery fire, a Japanese relief column today began crossing the Yellow river at Chengliukow ford north of Lanfeng in an effort to rescue the beleaguered forces of Lieutenant General Kenji Doihara, Japan's "Lawrence of Manchuria."

Chinese, advancing from Lanfeng, reported their encircling columns were driving Doihara toward the banks of the Yellow river.

(A Peiping dispatch quoted a Japanese army spokesman as admitting that Doihara was bottled up, but saying his troops were attacking the surrounding Chinese determinedly.)

("By no means can it be said that he is retreating," the spokesman asserted.)

(He declared the approach of Japanese reinforcements from Kweichow, east of Lanfeng, was making the Chinese nervous and that they were beginning to withdraw to the west.)

(One Japanese column, the spokesman said, had reached Liuho, on the Lunghai railway, and a motorized unit was at Kunchuehchung after brief engagements with Chinese forces met in route. Both towns are about 40 miles east of Lanfeng.)

After 23 days and nights of battle, the exhausted armies in the Lanfeng sector carried on the fighting in a downpour of rain, still stalemated.

Japanese forces advancing from Mengcheng southward met stout resistance as they carried the fighting into new territory near the Kwei river. They apparently were aiming to attack Fengtai with the intention of placing Chinese troops at Hsuei between two Japanese columns and forcing them to withdraw westward.

After a two weeks' deadlock around Hsuei, which the Japanese captured six days ago, the Chinese were reported counterattacking vigorously near Tachushan hill, seven miles to the northwest.

Hoke Smith Junior High Principal Is 'Man of Hour' at Last Exercises

L. O. Kimberly Has Devoted 45 Years of His Life to "Bringing Out Good Qualities" of More Than 30,000 Children He Has Guided.

An Atlanta junior high school principal who has devoted 45 years of his life to "bringing out the good qualities" in more than 30,000 boys and girls he has taught or supervised drew the curtain on his lengthy teaching career yesterday amid the praise of students and school officials.

L. O. Kimberly, head of Hoke Smith Junior High school for the last 15 years, was "the man of the hour" at promotion exercises of the school. Members of the class eulogized him as a man embodying the principles of thrift, simplicity, friendliness, work strength, courage and the spirit of humanity.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, who made the principal address, described him as a man with "quiet power" and urged the students to pattern their lives after the examples set for them by the veteran educator in whose honor the entire program was presented.

And as the retiring principal sat and talked of his career following the exercises, it was easy to understand what the students meant when they said again and again, "We'll miss you, Mr. Kimberly."

His philosophy of teaching was to emphasize the good qualities in his students and minimize the bad features. A satisfactory teacher, he thinks, should not be required to administer much severe punishment.

"The longer I have taught," he said, "the less I have had to use the switch. As long as you make a boy or girl feel that he has something good about him you'll be steering him in the right direction."

"As I look back over my years of teaching, I recall that most of the children who dropped out of school did so because they thought nobody believed in them. Some children, you know, never get a kind word at home, and it's the teacher's duty to find something good about them."

Started at Ben Hill. Mr. Kimberly got his start in the teaching profession in a little one-room school building at Ben Hill. Molding the lives of boys and girls has been one of his greatest joys and he expressed regret at having to leave the children "I love so much."

He added, however, that he planned to keep in close contact with what is going on in the school.

Following a brief rest, Mr. Kimberly said he hoped to do some traveling. He has been teaching continuously in the Atlanta school system for 27 years. Previously he had taught principally in Fulton county.

"I don't know how to express my appreciation to the students, faculty and parents," he said when members of the promotion class presented him with a belt buckle and tie clasp as a token of their esteem. "I only hope that I measure up to a few of the things you have said about me."

Students who gave brief talks in tribute to the principal were Gilbert Cohen, Sylvia Glustrom, Rounelle Martin, Cecil Dickerson, Sidney Mendel, Robert Stokes, Lonnie Clark and Sara Roderick.

Legion Medal Winner. Winner of the American Legion medal and a $20 prize for the best essay in junior high schools was Lonnie Clark. Charles Macris was awarded the U. D. C. medal for the best essay in Hoke Smith on Jefferson Davis. Frances Miles, Dorothy Huff and Helen Clark were first, second and third prize winners, respectively, in the Southeastern Fair poster contest.

Students with perfect attendance records for three years are Pauline Miller, Betty Magbee and Betty Pickens. Mary Evelyn Phelps attained an "A" in every subject throughout junior high school.

Among those attending the exercises to honor Mr. Kimberly were seven members of the class of 1914 at Boys' High school, which was taught by Mr. Kimberly. The group was composed of W. N. Boone, W. F. Johnson, Russell Baker, Wilson Miner, Howard Cook, Lawrence Halzman and E. S. Cook, president of the board of education, who delivered certificates to 196 members of the promotion class.

SALVATION ARMY TO GREET RETIRED CHIEF TOMORROW

General Higgins and Wife
Will Participate in College Dedication.

General Edward J. Higgins, retired international leader of the Salvation Army, and his wife will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow to take part in a four-day program in connection with the dedication of the new Evangelical Booth Training College and the bestowal of commissions on this year's class of cadets.

They will be met at the Terminal station by Lieutenant Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire, southern territorial commander, and members of his staff, who will escort the couple to a men's social conference at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, when Commissioner Pugmire will preside.

Luncheon Planned.
At noon, department heads and divisional commanders of the Army will entertain General and Mrs. Higgins at a luncheon. The conference then will be continued. At 7:45 o'clock tomorrow night, the training college staff and cadets will present a musical in the ple auditorium in honor of the couple.

General Higgins will make the principal dedicatory speech at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the new Evangelical Booth Training College.

Born in England 84 years ago, General Higgins became identified with Salvation Army work as a young man. He began as a volunteer worker and rose steadily until he became international commander of the organization—the only person not related to the family of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, ever to hold the office.

Visited State in 1931.
He first served in the United States as chief secretary to Commander Booth-Tucker from 1895 through 1908. During that time, he traveled more than 600,000 miles in every state in the nation. As international commander, General Higgins visited Georgia in 1931 and was received by the late Governor L. G. Hardman, Governor-elect Richard B. Russell Jr., and other prominent Georgians, including Preston S. Arkwright, chairman of the Army's Atlanta advisory board.

Mrs. Higgins is famous in her own right. In addition to rearing a large family of children, she has filled a number of executive positions, including the chairmanship of the comforts department serving the English soldiers during the World War and as head of the Graves Visitation department following the war.

POLITICAL SCENE LAPSES INTO CALM

Vigorous Campaigns Are Forecast Before End of Summer.

Although the four candidates for the governorship and the like number seeking the United States senate seat promised vigorous campaigns before the summer is ended, the "calm before the storm" period began in Georgia politics yesterday.

Both Governor Rivers and Senator George have let it be known that they do not plan to start immediate campaigning, while United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, New Deal foe of the senator, has announced a speech for tomorrow night, but has added that it will not be followed immediately by a series of stump speeches.

Talmadge Campaigning.
Ex-governor Talmadge, another of Senator George's foes, continues his sporadic campaigning but William G. McRae retired to his Atlanta law offices to map his campaign.

Hugh Howell, one of Governor Rivers' three opponents, announced his next speech would be over Station WSB at 7:30 o'clock the night of June 10. J. J. Mangham, of Bremen, another Rivers foe, is expected in Atlanta today to map his campaign plans. Robert F. Wood, of Athens, fourth gubernatorial candidate, announced the opening of headquarters in the Tremont hotel here.

Meanwhile the wide-open race for the congressional seat vacated by Representative Braswell Deen, of Alma, in the eighth district and the controversy rising over the alleged non-qualification of Senator G. Everett Millican in the 53d state senatorial district vied with the two major state races for interest.

Millican Action.
Senator Millican remained out of Atlanta on business but his friends predicted action would be taken to force the Fulton county Democratic committee, which has held that he did not qualify, to place him on the ballot.

Alderman Robert Carpenter, who qualified both with the senatorial committee and the county committee, said he had "nothing to say."

"The action is the action of the county committee and I have nothing to say about it," Carpenter declared.

Millican qualified with the committee he named to represent the Fulton senatorial district shortly after his election last year when the district was created, but he did not qualify with the county organization which the committee Tuesday held he should have done.

"The whole thing is unfortunate but there is nothing which can be done about it," chairman Hughes Spalding, of the county committee, said yesterday.

Friends of Senator Millican said yesterday that his forces were considering an appeal to the state Democratic executive committee and that court action might result. They predicted that should he fail to obtain a place on the ballot, Millican could be counted on as a sure candidate in the general election.

Chairman Charles S. Reid, of the state Democratic executive committee, who would be called upon to act in the event an appeal is taken, was reported out of the city yesterday.

G-MAN FACES JAIL IN HARLAN TRIAL

Defense Charges Tampering
With Witnesses.

LONDON, Ky., June 2.—(UP)—The issues became so involved in the Harlan coal conspiracy trial today that the defense tried to jail a G-man for contempt of court.

Whether it will succeed or not will be known next Monday night when Federal Judge Ford will hold a special session of court to hear arguments on the defense contention that J. M. O'Leary, a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent assigned to this case, interfered with defense witnesses and thereby hampered lawyers in the preparation of the case for 19 coal corporations and 44 individuals.

What with two defendants being arrested on charges of subordination of perjury and the defense seeking contempt action against O'Leary, the trial today moved far away from the issue in the indictment—whether the coal companies and the individuals conspired to bring about a reign of terror in Harlan county to prevent miners from organizing.

DROWNS WHILE SWIMMING.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 2.—(UP)—Billy Stringer, 13, of East St. Louis, Ill., drowned today in a government tourist camp pool while in swimming.

Bob Taylor Returns, Westerner, Adventure Film, Holdovers Offered

"Three Comrades," at Grand; "Kidnaped," at Fox;
"Gun Law," at Capitol; "Rialto Returns" "The Count of Monte Cristo," and Paramount; "Vivacious Lady."

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

That fluttering of feminine hearts you hear today is explainable. Robert Taylor has returned to town—via the Grand's screen attraction, "Three Comrades." An adventure film, a western and two holdovers complete the motion picture program for Atlantans this week.

Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew appear at the Fox in Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnaped" (not a story of the modern "snatch racket" but an adventure film). Arleen Whelan has the feminine lead.

Opening Sunday at the Capitol is "Gun Law," a western starring George O'Brien. On the stage will be "Passing Parade," a vaudeville revue presenting 25 variety stars.

The Rialto is holding "The Count of Monte Cristo," which features Elissa Landi and Robert Donat, and the Paramount has listed "Vivacious Lady" for another week's run. The latter is one of Ginger Rogers' best pictures, an enjoyable comedy.

But let us give the theater managers a chance to tell us about their attractions for the coming week.

FOX MANAGER LIKES "KIDNAPED"
Manager Hudson Edwards, of the Fox, says: "From the world's great stories comes the great motion picture, it is said, and 'Kidnaped,' which opens at our theater today, is a picture to prove the axiom."

"Robert Louis Stevenson considered this story his best and with the typical lavishness of all Stevenson stories 'Kidnaped' brings an array of thrills to the screen in this romantic adventure story. Warner Baxter portrays in all his swashbuckling best, the never-to-be-forgotten Alan Breck, fugitive clansman of the highlands. Freddie Bartholomew, in his first role since 'Captains Courageous,' gives a fine performance in the role of David Balfour, the boy hero of the story."

"The movie takes liberty with the original script in introducing a 'heart interest' to the life of Alan Breck, but other than that the story sticks pretty closely to that written by Stevenson. It concerns Breck's leading the clans in revolt against union of the North Country with George III's domain and David Balfour is led with the unscrupulous uncle who tries to keep the boy's rightful estate by having him kidnapped and shipped to America."

"In the cast are C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, John Carradi, Nigel Bruce, Miles Mander, Ralph Forbes and 5,000 extras."

"THREE COMRADES"
COMES TO GRAND

Manager Eddie Pentecost, of the Grand, says: "Post-war Germany, seen through the eyes of Erich Maria Remarque, author of 'All Quiet on the Western Front,' provides the background for 'Three Comrades,' presenting Robert Taylor, Franchot Tone and Robert Young as three friends, ex-soldiers; Margaret Sullivan as Taylor's sweetheart, and a supporting cast which includes Guy Kibbee, Lionel Atwill, Henry Hull, Charley Grapewin and Monty Woolley."

"Soon after the three young men leave the army they resolve to join forces to fight the future together. They own a small repair shop, and during their spare time they build themselves a fast racing car, of discarded automobile parts. During a holiday trip in their car they meet Patricia (Margaret Sullivan), a once-wealthy girl, impoverished by war, and Robert Taylor falls in love with her."

"The others (Robert Young and Franchot Tone) urge the girl to marry Taylor, but she refuses, because she has tuberculosis. But their love is too strong to be set aside, and the two young people are swept into each other's arms. One day Pat collapses. A physician advises she be sent to a sanitarium before winter comes. Robert Young is shot in a political upheaval. Finally, by selling their automobile, the two remaining comrades are able to send Pat to a sanitarium, hoping for her recovery. 'Three Comrades' is a strong and poignant story of these survivors of war, victims of its aftermath."

FRONTIER FILM LISTED AT CAPITOL
Manager Earle Holden, of the Capitol, says: "A thrilling story of law enforcement on the old Arizona frontier is offered in 'Gun Law,' which will open a week's engagement at the Capitol theater Sunday. The picture marks the screen return of George O'Brien."

"O'Brien has the role of a federal marshal who assumes the identity of a notorious gunman to enable him to investigate a series of hold-ups. The impersonation results in plenty of action in the course of the story, which involves O'Brien in a romance with a preacher's daughter, a half-dozen gun and fist fights and several encounters with near-death."

"On the stage starting Sunday the theater will offer 'Passing Parade,' said to be a better-than-average unit with a cast of 25 stage and radio stars and presenting eight acts of vaudeville."

"Capitol's current offering, 'The Nurse From Brooklyn,' starring Sally Eilers and Paul Kelly, ends Saturday along with 'Penthouse Follies' on the stage. Another amateur contest will be presented at 9 o'clock tonight."

"COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO"
REMAINS AT RIALTO

Manager W. T. Murray, of the Rialto, says: "The dramatic and romance-filled story by Alexander Dumas, 'The Count of Monte Cristo,' will remain at the Rialto theater for a second week, beginning today. The famous film has drawn such crowds to the box office that I felt it would require another week to satisfy all those local picture fans who want to see it."

"The picture, of course, is one of the outstanding masterpieces of the screen of recent years. Originally released some two or three years ago, this is actually a return engagement. But the power of the story, the method of its telling and the enthusiasm of its audiences all indicate it is as great today as any new film could possibly be."

"Robert Donat and Elissa Landi are the stars, while the supporting cast boasts such fine players as Louise Calhern, O. P. Heggie, Sidney Blackmer, Luis Alberni, Raymond Walburn, Irene Hervey, etc. The producers stuck with commendable fidelity to the Dumas plot, retaining its melodramatic power as well as the romantic beauty of its dual love stories. "Short subjects are added to the bill and the second week of 'The Count' should rival the first in box office popularity."

PARAMOUNT HOLDS OVER
"VIVACIOUS LADY"
Manager Tommy Reed, of the Paramount, says: "In holding over 'Vivacious Lady,' we are offering the Atlanta movie-going public another opportunity to see one of the best comedies produced on the screen."

"Marking a distinct departure in modern film stories, the heroine in 'Vivacious Lady' does not, in this instance, happen to be the villain of the story. Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are the romantic leads in this RKO-Radio offering while James Ellison heads the supporting cast, in a role that places him at one end of the romantic triangle."

"The fast-paced comedy concerns the problems that beset a young college professor and his night-club bride when they return to the groom's home town, a small, sedate community. James Ellison plays the pleasure loving, irresponsible cousin to the groom and, although the latter has succeeded in winning the gay cafe beauty, the playboy cousin is likewise in love with her. Amusing complications set in as the newlyweds attempt to break the news of the marriage to the groom's parents."

"YOU AND ME"
IN FOX PREVIEW
Sylvia Sydney portrays the part of an ex-convict out on parole in her latest film, "You and Me," which will be shown in preview at the Fox theater at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow night. George Raft has the masculine lead.

The story concerns two ex-convicts hopelessly in love but banned from marrying because of a parole law forbidding it.

GRAND ALSO OFFERS SHORT ON G. M. A.
An added attraction at Loew's Grand starting today is a short film, "Symbolizing Americanism," made at the Georgia Military Academy during the commencement exercises which were concluded last Monday.

Sequences in the picture include senior processional; dress parade; competitive company and individual drills; presentation of sponsors; the senior-alumni banquet; senior prom; graduation exercises and award of diplomas and dedication of the new bandstand.

Ex-Governor John M. Slaton is shown addressing the graduation class. The film is a Clifford T. Burgess production, photographed by Kenneth Stambaugh.

Building Boom
Sets New Record
In Hapeville

Building is booming in Hapeville—with figures for the first five months climbing more than 900 per cent above the totals for the same period last year, it was announced yesterday.

Though construction fell off in Atlanta, Georgia and the nation, Hapeville's spurt, caused by a new school, apartment-hotel and new homes, resulted in setting its all-time high record in building permits issued.

Permits totaled $164,725 through May, as compared with only $16,520 for the same five months of 1933. The record includes $85,000 for a new high school, $18,000 for the apartment-hotel on Virginia avenue, and $30,000 for 10 new homes to be built in the Moreland Park subdivision.

Dr. Abercrombie, club president, opened the meeting by introducing the new members, Olin M. Hadley, J. L. Hoffman, John A. Hynds, and Eli Thomas. Following Miss Harrison's talk, a business meeting was held, when members voted to postpone plans to join the Men's Garden Club of America until this fall.

WPA TO BEGIN WORK ON TECH POOL, GYM

Projects Costing $186,900 Will Get Under Way by June 15.

Work on an indoor swimming pool at Georgia Tech to cost $131,900 and completion of the interior of a gymnasium to cost $55,000 will be started by June 15, it was announced yesterday by L. B. Barrett, WPA area engineer.

Both projects are being sponsored by the school, which is contributing approximately one-half of the total cost.

The new pool will be 40 feet by 75 feet and will be housed in a concrete and steel building 161 feet by 75 feet adjoining the gymnasium. It will be constructed in accordance with the latest designs and specifications of the American Indoor Aquatic Association.

Plans call for ceramic tile lining, safety tile walkways, marked lanes for swimming contests and automatic water temperature control. Equipment will be included to recirculate, chemically treat and filter the water.

The building housing the tank will have an ornamental finish to correspond with the gymnasium. It will be equipped with an air-conditioning system and will provide seats for 300 persons.

The gymnasium, already erected by another agency, will be completed by WPA. Work will include installation of 1,500 bleacher seats, an air-conditioning system, toilets and plumbing.

YOUTH tells its Story!

Every father, every mother, every graduate looking for his first job, every college student, every schoolboy and schoolgirl will want to read and study today's new issue of LIFE.

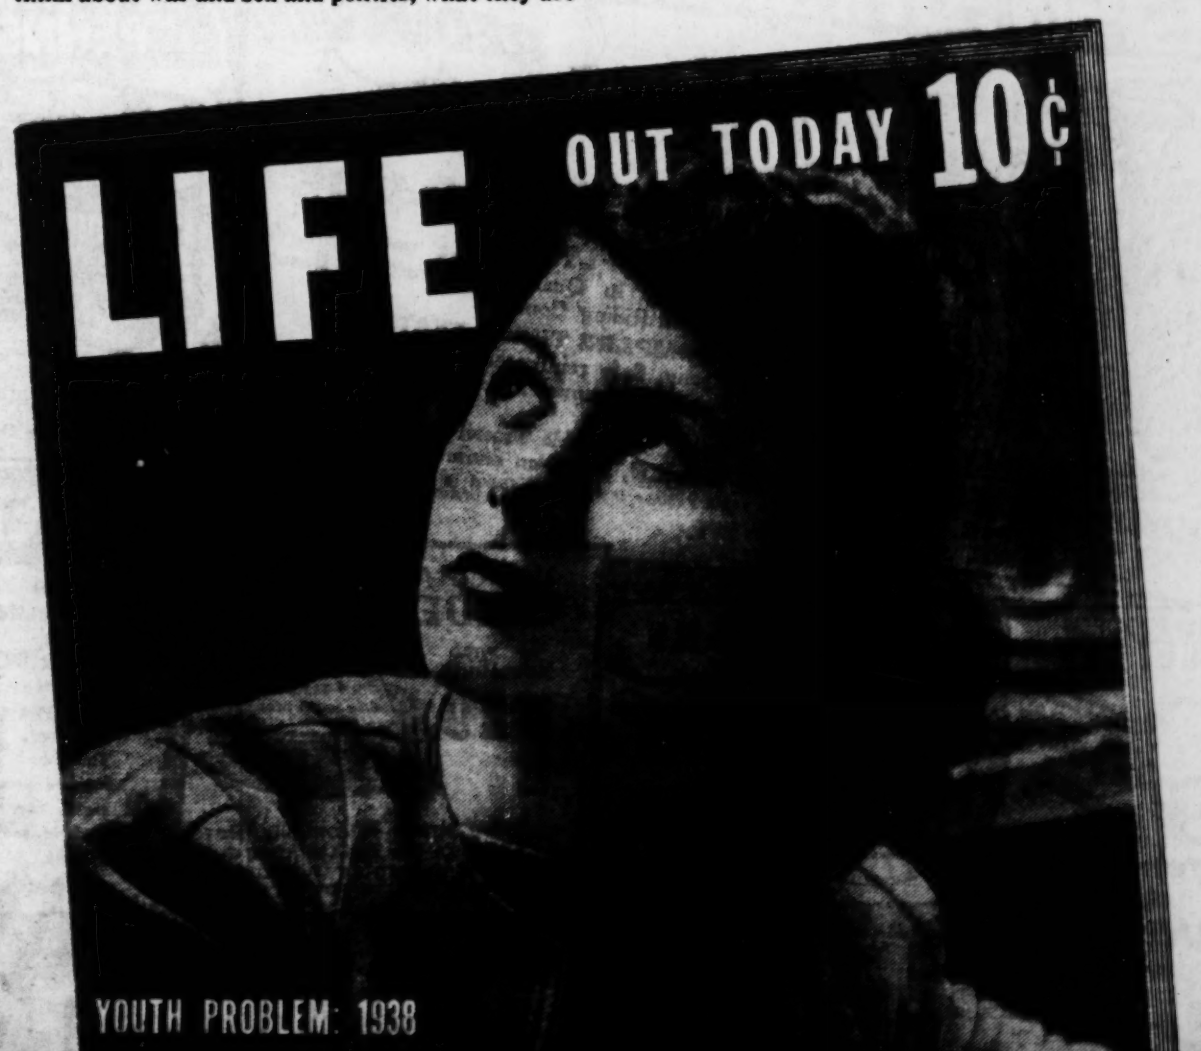

For this week, LIFE devotes 50 pages to a revealing and significant cross-section of the lives and activities of the twenty million young Americans between the ages of 16 and 24.

LIFE shows you how rich girls live and how poor boys struggle — on the farm, in the factory, in the classroom. LIFE shows you what they think about war and sex and politics, what they are doing to develop a new code of morals, and what they think about the economic system under which most graduates are finding it so hard to get jobs.

LIFE's unique pictorial survey of American Youth is a social document of the utmost importance, inspired and guided by the two-year research of the American Youth Commission. Until you have seen it, you cannot fully understand the hopes and problems of America's next — and perhaps most important — generation.

Be sure to get your copy of LIFE today!

North Georgia Mountains Provide Setting for Summer House Parties

By Sally Forth.

THE mountains of north Georgia, where many Atlantans maintain summer homes, will provide the setting for house parties galore this summer. Especially will the high peaks of the state's northern section attract younger crowds who will form congenial groups spending the warm days amid the mountains and surrounding lakes.

One of the house parties planned for this week end is that at which young Sally Prescott will entertain at Prescott Lodge, summer home at Lakemont of Sally's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Prescott. Sally and her mother, Mrs. Calvin Prescott, left yesterday to spend the forthcoming two weeks at Prescott Lodge. They will be joined tomorrow by Fannie McCullough, Margaret Ann Speas, Julia Orme and Winifred Shackelford, who will be Sally's guests for this week end, as will be Carolyn Madden, of Concord, cousin of the young hostess.

Clayton is another north Georgia town that is popular with Atlantans seeking the cool mountain breezes in the summer season. July will find Kingwood, home of the late George E. King, filled with members of this beloved Atlantian family. Among house parties scheduled at Kingwood is that at which Alice Thomas, of this city, and Ruth King New, of Baltimore, will entertain in July. Alice and Ruth are devoted cousins, and their house party will assemble ten boys and girls from Atlanta and an equal number of Baltimore's belles and beaux.

The young hostesses' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas and

Mr. and Mrs. Carl New, will chaperon the party, which will be one of the merriest given this summer in north Georgia.

Alice leaves next Tuesday for Wilmington, Del., to visit Jeanette Sibley, daughter of the John Sibleys, former Atlantians. Jeanette, by the way, will accompany Alice home when she returns in July and will be one of the guests in the house party at Kingwood.

CECIL EDGAR COOK, 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cook, of Marietta and grandson of Atlantian O. B. Keeler, will be christened on Sunday, with a group of admiring relatives and friends in attendance. Motoring to Marietta for the occasion will be Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Keeler and Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Keeler, of Athens.

The baby's mother, as you know, is the former Elizabeth Keeler. The christening service will take place at Tranquilla, the home of Mrs. George Keeler, who is the baby's great-grandmother. The Rev. J. H. Patton, who christened the baby's mother and who also performed the ceremony at her marriage to Mr. Cook, will officiate.

Young Cecil, who will be exactly 10 months old on that day, will wear an exquisite christening robe of batiste and real lace which is the gift of Mrs. John Brantley and Mrs. George Keeler.

SALLY always takes pleasure in bringing you word of former Atlantians and today she records news of Molly Walsh, of Little Rock, Ark., who, with their young son, George Jr., visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ogden Walsh, here about three weeks ago.

George has just had a splendid promotion in his business which necessitates moving with his family to Cleveland, Ohio. So he and Molly will motor to their new home next week. Their cousin, Wrenetta Worthen, will arrive there a few weeks later, bringing little George Jr. with her.

When George phoned his parents the news, they at once began plans to pay their son a visit before his departure, hence Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will board a train leaving today for Little Rock.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

UTICA, N. Y.—A most interesting letter has come to me describing the work of the emergency committee of 1,000 for Youth. These young people, who have emigrated to Palestine, are being helped to independence mainly in rural projects. They have a two-year training course which covers every department of rural work and the running of a home. Six months before this course ends, they begin to consider what they expect to do in the future and 75 per cent of them have thus far remained on the soil.

A movement such as this seems to give real hope for future security to children, many of whom have come from areas where life has been extremely precarious.

While I arranged my books up here this spring, it came over me how selfish I am. Not since I was very young have I really wanted a book and not been able to buy it. Yet one of my young neighbors, who helped me to dust and put my books back into place not long ago, remarked there were many books on my shelves which she would like to borrow.

Dutchess county is a rural community and though there are libraries in many of the villages, they are not open at all times. For one reason or another, a great number of people in rural areas, and in urban areas also, have not found the habit of reading. It may be due to the fact that books are not always available. In 1935 the American Library Association estimated that 40,000,000 rural and 5,500,000 urban people in the United States were without library service and that another-third of the population had very inadequate library service.

It seems to me that the answer to this situation is the county library, but to be successful the county library must have the support of all the people in the county. The tax on individuals need not be great, but if in any given county, it is more than the county can carry alone, one or more counties could consolidate and a regional library with automobile distribution could serve them all.

I think few people know that a few years ago the United States congress established the library service division in the office of education with a staff of three trained librarians who began its work on January 3, 1938. Their work is to assist the state, regional and county libraries by furnishing them with national statistics and by keeping them in touch with what is going on throughout the country. WPA has been able to do a great deal to help people wishing to organize rural libraries. It is to be hoped that more communities will avail themselves of the awakening interest of the government and the people, in order that one of the vital factors in real education may be made available to all.

We left Hyde Park very early this morning, stopped at Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson's at Mohawk for lunch, called on a friend and ended up in Utica, N. Y., where I am speaking tonight at a meeting of the women's division of the Democratic state committee.

Lillian Mae Patterns

WITH A WINSOME BOLERO.

Pattern 4820. You are almost certain to need a double-duty dress like this for summer... cool and comfortable on the tennis court with its sun-tan back, and ready for the street when its bolero is shielding your shoulders. Notice how few seams you have to sew, since the dress comes in a minimum of pieces and observe, too, that the back unbuttons to the very hem, which makes for easier ironing. This youthful Lillian Mae style looks equally charming in one of the new all-white crease-resist fabrics or in a neat cotton print.

Pattern 4820 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16, entire ensemble, takes 4-1/2 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number. Don't envy the smartness of other women—send for the new Lillian Mae summer pattern book at once—and make the most flattering outfits you ever owned. You, and the children, too, can have the season's favorite styles, in the newest fabrics—for very little money. Planning a stay at the beach? Remaining in town? No matter where you summer you'll want what is pictured... and that's everything from sand-and-sea to the flimsy dance gowns. Price of book 15 cents. Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

IF YOU CAN CHIN YOURSELF, YOUR ARMS WILL PASS THE SHORT SLEEVE TEST.

When you were the neighborhood tomboy you could probably chin yourself six times in a row from the limb of the old apple tree. And now you can feel rightfully proud if you are able to hoist yourself chin-level just once.

That's not old age. The trouble is that you have not used those upper arm muscles enough to keep them strong. And what has this strong arm stuff to do with your figure program? Plenty! If you find it impossible to chin yourself, you no doubt have arms that are as flabby as a rag doll's, and look forward with scant pleasure to the short sleeve season.

While age actually has nothing to do with the shapeliness of the arms, failure to use the arm muscles over a long period of time makes this area almost as accurate an index of birthdays as the chinline.

No danger of flabby arm muscles so long as you can chin yourself.

Very few everyday tasks involve such movements as thrusting out forcibly with the arms, or working with the arms held in a horizontal rather than perpendicular position. You may contend that you do considerable work with your arms, but the old-fashioned chores, like operating the back porch pump, scrubbing on a washboard, or churning, were the ones that used the arm muscles most effectively. We would not for anything give up the clever inventions that lighten a woman's work, but they have made it necessary to invent special exercises for unemployed muscles, particularly those of the upper arms.

Next to chinning yourself, the most effective use of the arm muscles is obtained in the following exercise:

Position: Lying on the floor, face down, hands at the sides about shoulder-level, palms on floor.

Movement: Keeping the body in a straight line, push yourself up off the floor with the arms. (Whew! I hope you didn't expect that to be easy.)

This one exercise, repeated from three to five times daily, would keep your shoulder, arm and tum muscles on the job.

You may require an easier beginning exercise and here is one that we can all do with good results:

Position: Standing about 12 inches from the wall, palms of hands against the wall, chest level. Have the back straight and the tummy held up.

CRITICAL EYES WATCH HER ENTRANCE.

Poor flustered newcomer! She'll probably never be friends with charming people if she knows no more about correct form than this!

Hunched over the hotel register, burdened with paraphernalia the bellboy should carry, she cheaply signs "Patsy Lee."

In the smart crowd Patsy longs to know, nicknames are signed only to personal letters. In a hotel register she should write "Miss Patricia Lee, Town, State." If the hotel uses registration forms the street address is given also.

Little things—but good first impressions depend on them. Know the answers to all the questions that pop up when vacationing. What to tip and when? Give the bellboy a quarter when he brings your bags to your room. Give 10 to 15 cents for errands—such as getting a magazine. At meals, tip 10 to 20 per cent of the bill. If you stay a week or more—about 5 per cent of your bill at the end of your stay.

How to call your waitress to your table? Say quietly "Waitress"—not "Miss." A waiter is not "Mister" but "Waiter."

You show your breeding, too, in the way you accept attentions. Let the men guests open doors for you. To compliments say smoothly, "You're nice to say so." Not, "Aw, you're kidding!"

When you go riding, remember the man gets out first, then helps you. When you go dancing, you step first on the dance floor.

At all times—in all places—be poised, confident with pointers from our 40-page booklet, "Etiquette for Every Day." Good form for parties, dates, dancers, theaters, restaurants, motoring, visiting. Table manners. A complete social guide.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, ETIQUETTE FOR EVERY DAY TO HOME INSTITUTE, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Movement: Resisting with the arms, push forward until the chest touches the wall. Do not let the back sink in as you move toward the wall. Now, resisting with the body, push away from the wall with the arms. It is very important that the body be held in a straight line during the exercise. To stretch the leg muscles, have heels flat on the floor throughout. Repeat the exercise six times, gradually working up to 20. Always perform slowly and forcibly.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

NEWS FROM THE STUDIOS.

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—A movie without a man! Seems incredible, doesn't it? But that is exactly what M.-G.-M. is going to do with its $200,000 property, "The Women," now being adapted for the screen by F. Scott Fitzgerald. As you already know, this very successful play by Clare Boothe is minus men during its Broadway presentation. But a movie! Can a picture make money in which there is not a solitary man, either as a major, minor or mass character?

Producer Hunt Stromberg is so sure it can be done, he has assigned the leading role to Norma Shearer, first lady of movieland. To make up for the absence of males, the cast will be studied with front-ranking females, and it is said to prophesy that every able-bodied star on the Metro lot (with the exception, perhaps, of Jeanette MacDonald) will play her part in this unique film. Maureen O'Sullivan will probably play Peggy, one of the nicer characters among the "Women." Production follows "Idiot's Delight," in which Miss Shearer appears with Clark Gable.

Bette Davis will play the nun in "The Miracle," purchased from Max Reinhardt by Warner Brothers some time ago. "The Miracle" was first produced by Reinhardt in this country in 1924 on the New York stage with Lady Diana Cooper as the madonna, and Rosamond Pinchoff, who recently committed suicide, as the nun. Reinhardt has been sought to produce the picture, which goes before the cameras July or August, after Miss Davis completes "The Sisters." Other pictures on Bette's busy schedule include "The Lady With the Red Hair," the biography of Mrs. Leslie Carter; "Juarez" and "Maximilian," with Paul Muni; "Dark Victory," and "Memphis Belle," the sequel to "Jezebel."

Jackie Cooper, who already has a two-picture deal with Monogram, has signed a three-picture contract with Universal. The first, "That Certain Age," with Deanna Durbin; the second, a Boy Scout opus; the third yet to be determined. Every studio in Hollywood is fighting to acquire Rex Beach's stories. Harry Sherman has brought four more for Paramount production—"Frisco Belle," "Slandere," "Fox Fire" and "Fourth Offense." Sherman already owns "The Ne'er-Do-Well." And Warners have purchased "Flowing Gold," "The Barrier Was Burned" and "Vengeance of DuRand." Wayne Morris, George Brent and Jimmy Cagney with Pat O'Brien are respectively starred. Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey star in a remake of "The Guardsman," in which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne appeared. The new title is "Love Carnival."

Grace Moore is reading the movie script of "Never to Forget," which is, of course, a musical. She has one more picture to make for Columbia, and this is it—If Grace likes the story. "Thanks for the Memory," filmed from the popular song, is the new title for a song and dance show to star Shirley Ross and Bob Hope, who sang the song in "Big Broadcast of 1938." "Christmas Carol" with Lionel Barrymore, is expected to ring in some good film fare this coming yuletide. Bob Burns will star all on his ownswome in "Sixteen Hands," from the novel by Homer Croy.

Dance Recital. The Peachtree Dance Studio will present pupils of Mrs. Kathryn E. Webb and Miss Louise De Mayo in annual recital this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the studio, 226-1-2 Peachtree street.

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

Man in the 5 and 10-cent store. Business writes about doctors' fees. Evidently he has written me before, for he encloses a letter I sent in reply to his previous letter. In my letter I said:

If it is a question of pay, the young man who decides to enter the profession of medicine must relinquish any notion of attaining wealth. Indeed he must be content if he can make a living. Thousands of doctors right now, good men, too, are actually in want, and without even the prospect of retirement when they grow too old to practice—they'll become objects of charity. Through the depression years the doctors have taken it on the chin without whimper. People have let the doctor wait (since he makes so much money so easily) and still they have received his services when he knew they could no longer pay anything.

Now this second letter from the 5 and 10-cent store man reveals the nature of his business. And he has something interesting to say:

The business I am in is obviously one in which people get a lot for their money. Brethren, if we had half the assurance this man has! ... when a depression appears, down go our prices and first thing you know we are on the profit side again.

A doctor charges a certain price for his services whether it's a depression, a boom, a bear or a bull market. People can pay only what they can afford, and if the doctor charged a cash price as we do he wouldn't have so many headaches trying to collect.

Probably some of the doctors who will eventually become 5 and 10 merchants will find a dime in the hand is worth two in the books. You have a good deal of influence with the doctors, I believe, and you might persuade them to adjust their prices to the state of the patients' pocketbook.

... went down past his (old climate) office the other day, but the place was so dark I couldn't see whether he was still there or not. I have my suspicions of the prosperity of my old classmate, too. Busy as he may seem to be, I'd be willing to wager he is not accumulating a great deal since we were students together, for he was much too kind and tender-hearted a fellow to be an efficient business man. Not that doctors are more tender-hearted than business men in general, but propinquity, doctors have to live with it, you might say, and doctors are human.

However, there is in the 5 and 10-cent merchant's suggestion some food for thought. Certainly it is not medical ethics that prevents a physician from adjusting his fees to the present ability of the patient to pay.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

No Savvy. United States Employee's Compensation Commission in Washington does not authorize and will not pay for injection treatment of hernia. (H. O. S., M.D.)

Answer—They're a bit out of step. Injection treatment of hernia is recognized and paid for by state industrial commissions in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico, New York, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming and Wisconsin, and probably several other states by this time. The Minnesota commission states that injection treatment is employed in nearly 90 per cent of all industrial hernias in Minnesota.

No Adhesions. Seven months ago had ab. operation, and since have had much trouble from adhesions. Now another operation. (M)

Answer—Doctor who knows what the nature of the trouble was and what was done can advise you intelligently. No one can advise what to do about "adhesions."

Hernia. Husband has had injection treatment of hernia as recommended by you, but he still wears the truss under the order of the doctor who sent him to leave off the truss so he can undergo a physical examination for a position he is anxious to obtain? He fears he will be rejected if he reports for examination wearing a truss. (Mrs. A.S.)

Answer—Only his physician can advise him whether he may safely go without truss now. Generally it is wise to wear a truss for several months after the injection treatment has been given, to give plenty of time for the fibrous band produced about the hernial opening by the treatments, to become well organized and preclude giving way and recurrence of the hernia. ### Beauty According To You

By LILLIAN MAE.

A Valuable Cream for Skin That Is Dry, Very Thin, or Not So Young

By LILLIAN MAE.

I would not tell you that this cream, though a very rich emollient, will bring back youth overnight to faded skins, but what I do claim is that if you use it regularly, you will see very gratifying results.

After cleansing thoroughly, apply the cream generously on face and throat, working it into your skin, especially on your cheek bones, around your eyes and wherever your skin is inclined to be unduly dry, lined or coarsened. You'll be delighted with the smoothing, beautifying effect it produces. It will help to reduce enlarged and conspicuous pores which, frequently clogged or plugged, coarsen skin, causing blackheads and other blemishes.

Often times excessive dryness, aggravated by the weather, will lead to superficial lines which deepen with time. Regular use of this cream will help to make such skin look fuller and more supple.

If your skin is sensitive to weather and hard water, this emollient will increase resistance to the irritating factors. Containing two very important vitamins, it feeds and nourishes. It is surprising to note how much of this cream dry skin will absorb within a short time. If you have never used a nourishing, vitamin cream and you have a dry, sensitive, easily lined complexion, phone me at the office of The Constitution for the name of this very delightful product and the Atlanta stores at which it may be purchased. If you do not live in the city, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

SHOPPING FOR IDEAS.

Applied flowers for a quilted bedspread with slip, covered headboard to match.

We'd a lot rather go shopping than go buying. Because when we just go shopping we can look to our heart's content, and the sky's the limit as to price and utility. Whereas when we embark on an expedition to really buy this or that, well, that's something else again. We have to stick to the things we can afford for one thing. And for another, we have to consider wear, usefulness, practicality and a host of other dull and necessary points.

Bright Notions. The other day we started out bright and early on a shopping expedition with only car fare in our purse. We hadn't the slightest intention of buying so much as a paper of pins. We were just in search of bright notions and new ideas. And we found some beauties. Such as:

A perfectly delicious quilt-bedspread of white quilted intricately all over with a garland flower border applied on all around the edges. Then to match, a quilted slip cover for the headboard of the bed. The one we saw had the flowers intricately shaded out of separate patches. But to save a lot of work, an enterprising lady could copy the idea by cutting out garlands from a piece of chintz or cretonne, then applying them on and outlining the flowers with quilting.

Pink and White. A fresh cool-looking bedspread of pink and white striped seersucker finished with white ruffles was another find. Can you think of anything prettier and more June-y... unless it would be a white and pink birthday cake and 10 party-dressed little girls around a pink and white table!

A yellow chintz dressing table petticoat with ruffles of white eyelash embroidery such as we once wore on our long sleeved nightgowns. Very sunny looking.

Hassocks for the porch made out of awning striped canvas. Why wouldn't that be a good idea for recovering old bedraggled hassocks? Or for padding and covering some seat-high packing boxes that might be handy around the place.

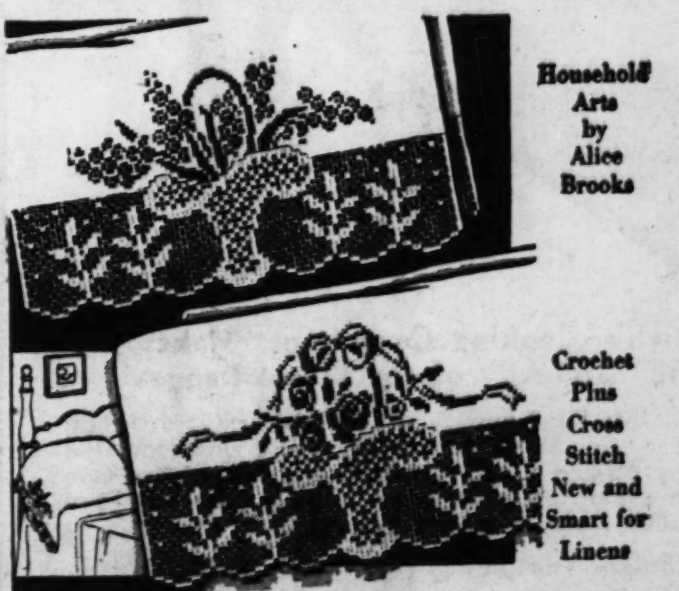

Looks Blithe. Flowered chintz cushions with ruffles all around in plain color—the edges of the ruffles pinked. Looks blithe and saves hemming or binding.

A child's cushion with the face of a cat applied on in contrasting color. The man in the moon would serve quite as well.

Sisal summer rugs in brilliant plain colors, such as emerald and indigo. That would be an idea for a year 'round rug for certain rooms, such as the dining room.

If you're in a summer refreshment mood, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, care The Atlanta Constitution, for our bulletin "Paint Them on Furniture or Walls." This bulletin includes pattern for designs that will decorate a nursery or child's room delightfully. You don't have to be an artist to copy them yourself. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Bridge Lite

By HAROLD SHARPSTEEN

BRIDGE PRIMER.

Opening one-suit bids are the ideal opening bids in contract bridge. Although the lowest bid, a one-bid does not show the weakest possible hand. The playing strength ranges from 2-1-2 honor tricks minimum to often as high as 5-1-2 honor tricks, with a sound biddable suit which may also vary in length and strength.

The basic requirements for opening bids are flexible enough to account for practically 75 per cent of all opening bids.

THE TWO-DEMAND. An opening bid of two in a suit is 100 per cent forcing to game. With the weakest conceivable hand partner must respond and neither partner is relieved of responsibility of bidding until a game contract is reached.

The opening two-suit bid is one of the most misunderstood and abused opening bids in bridge. It should seldom be considered with any hand less than a genuine rock crusher... never more than one trick short of game. For safety purposes it is best to possess a biddable five-card suit, at least 5-1-2 honor tricks, usually six to 5-1-2.

TWO-BID RULE. All opening two-suit bids are obviously slam invitations when partner holds any added high card values above average.

The simplest and safest two-bid formula requires more honor tricks in the hand than losing tricks, as:

S-K-Q-J H-A-K-J 10-8
D-A-K-3 C-3-2
Bidder counts 5-1-2 H.T., one losing spade, one heart loser, a losing trick in diamonds and two losing clubs for a total of five losers. He has a strong trump suit.

COUNT LOSERS.

Occasionally with a long, strong suit and unbalanced hand pattern, honor tricks requirements may be shaded, as:

S-K-Q-J H-A-K-Q 8-8-6-5
D-A-3 C-3-2
Counting 1-2 H.T., bidder notes only four possible losers. Honor tricks and distribution are both vital factors in two-suit openings, as a hand containing 13 spades would lay down for a grand slam even though the hand contains only two honor tricks. On the other hand, all 6-honor-trick holdings will not produce game as:

S-K-3-2 H-A-3-2
D-A-K-2 C-A-K-3-2

Correct responses for the two-bid will appear in next Friday's Bridge Primer.

Till tomorrow—

Miss Giles and Mr. Lovejoy Wed At Callaway Home in LaGrange

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 2.—The marriage of Miss Martha Callaway Giles, of Richmond, and John Lovejoy, of this city, was solemnized this evening at 6:30 o'clock at Hills and Dales, home of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Callaway Jr. The Rev. Dr. Willis E. Howard, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families and close friends of the young couple.

The bridal party descended a broad staircase into the drawing room, where an altar was arranged of Oregon ferns and white gladioli before the mantelpiece. Cathedral candles burning in white standards cast a glow over the wedding tableau.

The bridesmaids wore dresses fashioned alike of pastel chiffon made with full, floor-length skirts and featuring smocking at the waist, neck and sleeves. They wore broad-brimmed hats of white horsehair braid, trimmed with velvet streamers to match the dresses. Mrs. G. Jarrell Jernigan Jr., of New York and Atlanta, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Betty Ragdale, of LaGrange, wore gowns of apple green, and Miss Sara Chappell, of Richmond, and Miss Virginia Callaway, of Blue Springs, and LaGrange, were attired in maize chiffon. They carried bouquets of garden flowers.

The junior bridesmaids, Miss Sara Helen Giles, of Richmond, younger sister of the bride, and Miss Willie Sue Chappell, also of Richmond, wore flesh chiffon gowns fashioned like those of the bridesmaids, and in their hair they wore coronets of pink roses. Old-fashioned nosegays completed their costumes.

Miss Dorothy Giles, of Richmond and LaGrange, older sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her dress of aqua chiffon was made along mid-Victorian lines and smocked at the sleeves, waist and neck. Her hat was a poke bonnet of white horsehair braid trimmed with aqua velvet ribbons, and she carried a spray of yellow roses and delphinium tied with aqua ribbons. Mrs. Fuller E. Callaway Jr. was matron of honor and wore orchid chiffon with a picture hat of white braid trimmed in orchid velvet. Her flowers were yellow roses and delphinium.

Diane Davidson, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Davidson, of West Point, and niece of the bridegroom, preceded the bride to the altar. Her flower-girl's dress was of blue net, and she carried a basket of roses.

The bride, entering with her father, Jake Giles Sr., of Richmond, was radiantly lovely in her gown. It was white tulle fashioned in mid-Victorian style with narrow ruching finishing the waist, the square neck and the sleeves which were made full at the top and fitted below the elbow. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a cap of rose point lace trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies.

Howard O'Neal, of LaGrange, served as the bridegroom's best man, and the groomsmen were Charles Warner Jr., of Rome; Aja-lon Daniel Jr. and Hudson Maddox, of LaGrange, and Nathaniel Davidson, West Point.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Callaway entertained at a reception honoring members of the wedding party. White roses, regal lilies and asters decorated the lower floor of the home.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Callaway and Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy were Mrs. Giles, the bride's father; Mrs. Henry Brittain, of LaGrange, aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Hutton Lovejoy, the bridegroom's parents.

The young couple left by motor for a two-week motor trip in North Carolina and upon their return to LaGrange will reside on Winzor avenue. The bride chose for traveling a tailored suit of sheer wool crepe in navy blue. A navy felt hat and navy accessories completed the modish costume.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the marriage were Jake Giles Sr., Misses Dorothy and Sara Helen Giles, Jake Giles Jr., Mrs. Helen Giles Burr, Misses Sara and Willie Sue Chappell, all of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy, of Smyrna; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner, and Charles Warner Jr., of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Akin and Warren Akin, of Cartersville; Judge and Mrs. Frank Harwell, of Decatur; Mrs. James B. Ridley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troutman, Mrs. Annie Ridley Beauchamp, Miss Martha Ridley and Charles Ridley, all of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. William Banks and Dan Manget, of Newnan; Mr. and Mrs. G. Jarrell Jernigan Jr., of New York and Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Davidson, of West Point.

Miss Alberta Bell was hostess yesterday at a bridge-luncheon and lingerie shower at her home on Ponce de Leon place honoring Miss Ruth McCurry, fete bride-elect. Mrs. John Bell assisted her daughter in entertaining.

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY No. 17

The passengers sat in tense expectancy as the ship descended through the storm-racked clouds. They awaited death, or serious injury at best, in the jungle crash. But suddenly Captain Lavac cried out: "Water! There's water below us! We're saved!"

A few moments later the plane glided to the bosom of a small lake, hemmed in by the dismal forest, weird and forbidding. Through the pelting rain, Tarzan and Osgood transferred their friends ashore, where the wind moaned and howled through the twisting trees.

The jungle flood did not dampen the spirits of Frederick Gregory. He was clapped that they had come through safely, and he was eager to press on when the storm had subsided. "We've got to get to Bonga before Thoms gets there," he said, "to save Helen."

"We were flying perhaps in circles," Lavac confessed. "I don't know where Bonga lies from here. 'You mean we're lost?' Lavac nodded. Gregory turned pathetically, pleadingly to Tarzan. "Surely, you know where we are." The ape-man shook his head.

Southeastern A. A. U. Track Meet Set at Grant Field Tonight

SOUTHERN ACES MATCH STRIDES IN BIG PROGRAM

Afternoon Preliminaries Start at 2:30; Night Events Start at 8:00.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Powered with fighting hearts, digging spikes will pound the cinders of Grant Field today and tonight in the annual Southeastern A. A. U. track and field championships.

Muscles taut, perfectly trained and conditioned athletes from all over the southeast will be firing all loads at existing records and teams will be seeking the title won last year by Spec Towns and the Georgia Bulldogs.

And all for 50 cents! The price of the night admission. There could be no greater sports spectacle at any price.

Charlie Belcher and Vassa Cate, probably the two finest low hurdles in the nation, renew their bitter but friendly feud in the 220 low barriers. The standings now stand at one-all and they will fire both barrels tonight.

Chick Alridge and Henry Fredrickson—another feud which has become a by-word to track enthusiasts. Neither will run the mile tonight. Both will shoot the works in the two-mile, in efforts to break the existing record and

'TWO-GUN TONY' ENTERS SHOOT

No, it's not Two-Ton Tony Galento dressed up in a cowboy suit. It's Two-Gun Tony King, desperado from the wilds of Lullwater road. On close inspection he bears a startling resemblance to Clyde King, one of the "dark horses" entered in the state skeet shoot at the West End Gun Club, which starts today. King has ruled certain departments of state skeet from time to time.

Moore, Ex-A's Star, Named Cab Manager
MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 2.—(AP) Jimmy Moore, 34, former Philadelphia Athletic star who participated in the 1930 and 1931 World Series, today was appointed general manager of a taxicab company he became associated with here three years ago.

He has been superintendent of the firm. He is also a director of the Memphis Southern Association club.

When with Philadelphia, Moore was acclaimed the "most handsome player" in the majors.

toward the hills of Scotland. It is called, simply, "The Call."

There is a look on the face of this bronze man that will make the tears come to your eyes and make you curse the man who made it for his skill and his artistry. You may have a crate or so of the masterpieces in the Louvre, great as they are, and I'll take this. The artist caught there a look that is so essentially the look of fine, young manhood; eagerness for duty and a belief in all that is great and good. It pours right out of the bronze—"The Call"—and he hears it and you can see him about to start up and answer it.

From there I crossed the gardens and climbed the long hill in "Auld Reekie" to the old, old castle. Queen Ann's chapel was built in about 1150. The rest of it is almost as ancient. It was there James I was born. It was there Mary, Queen of Scots, lived a part of her unhappy and misunderstood life. And there, in the great courtyard, Scotland has built a memorial, the national memorial, to her war dead.

One enters a great hall. It, too, is simple. There is a wide panel for each regiment—the Highlanders, the Black Watch, the Gordon Highlanders, the King's Own, and so on. And on the panel is the list of their engagements. They go back to the old days. There is listed the battles all over the world, in the Crimean War, in South Africa, in India, in America, everywhere the flag of England has been.

At the base is a table and a book, bound in leather and heavily embossed. In each book is written the names of the men of those regiments who died in the great war—big, thick books of the Scottish dead.

There is a great weight on you there—especially if you come from that young man in bronze down in the gardens with that magnificent light in his face and eyes—and look at the panels and the book—each one crying out with thousands of tongues—"We did not die in vain—we died believing—what have you—the living—done? Have you lived in vain?"

I remembered the rumbling tanks in Germany and Vienna and the planes and the guns all over Europe. There was tension, the afternoon papers said, in Czechoslovakia. I pushed them away. If the call comes again it will be young men like the one in bronze who answer it—the Hitlers, the Mussolinis, the old men who make wars—will be safe.

I hope we don't muffle the years that follow the next war.

Golfdom Greats Explore Course at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—(AP) The humpy, trap-pocked Hillcrest terrain swarmed with exploring parties today as the nation's golf greats probed for trouble they will seek to avoid when the $5,000 Kansas City open tournament starts tomorrow.

Competition will be 72 holes of medal play, 18 holes tomorrow and Saturday, and 36 holes Sunday.

Former champions of every major tournament, both here and abroad, will vie for a slice of the $5,000 melon—Gene Sarazen, winner of the American and British opens; Johnny Revolta, an ex-P. G. A. champion, and Lawson Little, winner of the United States and the British amateurs.

GULF IS WINNER.

AUSTELL, Ga., June 2.—Gulf Oil, of Atlanta, defeated Clark Thread Mill, 2 to 1. Hammock's pitching was outstanding for the visitors.

Among his other triumphs were the Bluegrass stakes, Champagne stakes and the Nursery handicap.

Bubbling Over produced one Derby champion, Burgoon King, winner in 1932.

Olin Gentry, farm manager, said the chestnut son of North Star-Beaming Beauty, apparently was in good health last night.

He was found dead in his stall this morning.

In 13 starts, Bubbling Over never was out of the money, winning $78,552.

BULLDOGS HAVE FIVE ELIGIBLES

Fredriksen, Cate, Hunnicutt, Salisbury, Gillespie May Get Bids.

ATHENS, Ga., June 2.—(AP) Georgia has five men eligible for invitations to the national collegiate track meet to be held in Minneapolis June 18-19.

They are Henry Fredriksen, whose 4 minute 22 second mile victory in Birmingham is just inside the requirements; Bob Salisbury, whose 201 feet, 4 1-2-inch toss of the javelin is the second best made in the nation this year;

York's Circuit Blow Is One Below Mark

When Rudy York, Cartersville's gift to "Black Mike" Cochran, hit his first-inning homer with three on base last Monday in the Tigers' game with the Browns, it was his third circuit clout of the season with the bases drunk.

Charles F. Ward, in the Detroit Free Press, says the homer left Rudolph only one below the record for this type of wallop over a season of play.

side the requirements; Bob Salisbury, whose 201 feet, 4 1-2-inch toss of the javelin is the second best made in the nation this year;

Vassa Cate and Oliver Hunnicutt, both of whom have equalled the 9.8 second hundred requirement, and Joe Gillespie, who has done better than 1 minute, 56 seconds in the half mile.

Fredriksen, Salisbury and Cate stand the best chances of receiving invitations since Hunnicutt did not compete in the Southeastern conference meet, and still suffers from a pulled muscle in his leg.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS: Clayton Odell, a stranger in Norwood, and Hillary Layne meet unexpectedly when, exhausted after a long swim in a nearby lake, she clutches a canoe in which he is taking a sun bath. He invites her to climb aboard and rest. They take a liking to each other instantly and engage in a lively conversation. Hillary telling him that she works in the office of Romulus Wardlaw's hosiery mills. She describes Wardlaw as "sort of shrewd and up and grouchy" and complains about the poor pay the employees receive. Clayton gives her his name, but otherwise does not identify himself. Then he brings her ashore. Hillary immediately goes to her home, which she shares with her mother, a brother, Griffith, and a sister, Muriel, whose childhood sweetheart, an aviator, was killed in an accident. Hillary is upset when her mother tells her that Wardlaw's nephew, named Odell, has come to Norwood to help run the mills. Seeing Clayton in the office on Monday Hillary, painfully embarrassed, ignores his apology for not having made known his true identity. Four weeks later he asks her to go canoeing. She hesitates until Clayton says he wants to explain a new job he has for her—assisting him in installing a cost-accounting system. While Clayton is away Wardlaw, who resents his nephew's attentions to Hillary, discharges her. This so enrages Clayton that he refuses to take Hillary. He drives to Hillary's home to apologize for his uncle's unjust treatment of her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XVI

"Oh, I think it was more because he realized he had been pretty unfair to you. In fact, he said something about giving you a raise some day. That doesn't tempt you?"

"Of course not. And it isn't true. . . I mean he made the offer in hopes you'd stay. You can't quit. You mustn't."

"My mind's made up, Larry. More than ever. I did tell him I'd pass on his decision as regards you, but I didn't tell him I'd reconsider my own. I'm not worried about myself. I'm thinking of you."

"Please don't."

"I can't help it. Of course it's too soon for you to have made any definite plans, but do you mind telling me what you're going to do?"

Larry thought over the situation quickly. Not for words would she let Mr. Odell know how important it was that she finds another place as soon as possible. Or that she was rather terrified over her prospects in general. It was different for him. He could stay where he was or, if he didn't want to, he was free to go anywhere he liked. The fact that he was leaving the mill on her account seemed worse than her own misfortune. There was no reason for it. No reason for it at all, and it hurt . . .

She tried to assume a careless attitude.

"Oh, I don't know. I hadn't thought much about it yet."

"I've no right to ask, Larry. But is another position pretty . . . pretty essential?"

"Why, no," she fibbed, with a coolness that surprised herself. "Well, I'd rather be busy, of course. There's no fun loafing in a place like this. And most any girl likes to have her own pin money . . . feel independent, you know. I don't mind having my vacation now. I had expected to take it next month, anyway, so it doesn't make a great deal of difference."

Clay said it so soberly that a spirit of impish perversity appealed to Larry. With a deliberate attempt to be flippant, she remarked:

"I might decide to get married. Then I wouldn't have to worry. Don't you think that would be a rather good idea?"

"No, I don't think so."

If Clay had been less intensive with the answer, Larry would have dismissed the issue. But, because he was, she was tempted to carry it a little farther. "Is that very nice?" she asked demurely, smiling to herself in the darkness. "It might be providential."

"Are you trying to tell me that you're engaged?"

She could feel his eyes searching her face.

"No . . . not exactly. I could be."

"I don't doubt it. What do you mean by 'exactly'?"

It was so much more than Larry had bargained for that she was completely taken back. Nothing to do now but to brazen it through in some fashion. She tried to laugh, conscious that it was for a complete failure. Then, scarcely knowing where she was, she blundered on:

"It really is funny. I guess it doesn't happen to a girl very often . . . be fired and proposed to all in one day."

"I see. You mean you didn't give the gentleman his answer?"

"No . . ."

That was the worst of telling a lie like that. You started, and you had to keep covering up. She didn't owe Mr. Odell any explanation of her personal affairs. It certainly wasn't in very good form for him to ask questions. Larry overlooked the fact that she was the one who had made it possible.

"I see."

Mr. Odell pondered in silence. Larry was half expecting he would want to know who the man was. But he had no more questions to ask. Instead, he remarked quietly:

"I'm glad you told me that, Larry. And I'm more glad that you didn't say yes to this chap. I hope you won't."

"Wh . . . why?" she stammered, unable to believe her ears.

"Because," came a calm voice from the gloom. "I want an option on you for twenty-nine days. You see, Larry Layne, I love you."

An oppressive silence fell over the darkened porch following Clayton's statement. Larry sat perfectly motionless, scarcely breathing. The ticking of the clock in the front hall was plainly audible.

Clay stirred slightly; the swing moved.

"Well?" he questioned in a low tone. "What are you going to say to me, Larry?"

She drew a long quivering breath.

"Why did you say that to me?" she asked, "did you . . . have to?"

"Because it happens to be true," he replied steadily. "Yes, I think I had to say it. Just because it is true . . . not for any reason like I think you have in mind."

"It couldn't be true. That's why it hurts."

"Listen, my dear. Clay leaned nearer. "Will you tell me that you don't want it to be true?"

Larry made no reply.

"I didn't mean to hurt you," he went on gently. "I'd never do that. The only reason I said anything about the 29 days was . . . well, I knew the . . . I mean I couldn't expect you to believe it all at once. I couldn't myself, at first. I might need that much time, too, to line up some prospects to offer you. But that doesn't worry me half as much as what you're going to think and believe. May I try to explain?"

He accepted Larry's continued silence for consent.

CATCHING A PUMA ALIVE.

Among the large animals of the cat family is one on our own continent with several good names. Perhaps the best names are "puma" and "cougar," but it also is called "panther," "painter," and even "mountain lion, although it is not correct to class it as a lion. The puma is a fierce and powerful beast with sharp claws, and with teeth fitted for tearing flesh. Often it grows to a length of five feet, not counting the tail.

Then she bounded up "like a yellow rubber ball," and ran with the hounds yelping after her. The chase led down a ravine and became so close that the puma ran up another pine tree a few hundred yards distant.

Out on a large limb went the puma, but this time it did not dare to jump—for the limb hung over the deep ravine. Jones climbed the tree to a point on the trunk above the limb, then threw his lasso. Time and again he threw, but missed. Then he circled her neck and pulled the rope quickly.

The puma leapt, and Jones used all his might to hold the rope. The beast swung in mid-air, and Jones began to climb down. Before he reached the ground, he tumbled and let go of the rope.

The next scene was a mass of fighting animals—he dogs against the big cat. In the excitement, Zane Grey slipped and fell down the side of the ravine. When he crawled back, the fight was still going on, but Jones had the end of the rope again.

The puma made a flying leap at the cowboy, but missed him. A moment later he managed to tie one end of the lasso rope around a sapling. Seizing a stout stick, Grey drove the badly bitten and badly scratched dogs away from the puma. Another lasso was thrown around her, and this was fastened to a different tree. Then the animal's legs were tied up so she could be taken out of the forest.

Up to about 120 years ago, pumas were to be found in almost every province of Canada and in most American states. Nowadays they are seldom seen running wild except in certain parts of the Rocky Mountain area.

Many zoos contain pumas, and sometimes we may observe such an interesting sight as a mother puma carrying a cub around in her mouth. Like a lion or a tiger, she knows how to hold a cub firmly enough so it doesn't fall out, but not so tightly as to hurt it.

Most pumas in zoos were captured as cubs out in the wilds, or else were born in captivity. Now and then, however, a full-grown puma is taken alive, either in a trap or in some other way.

Buffalo Jones, a cowboy, and Zane Grey, a widely known writer, took lassos with them when they went out to capture a full-grown puma. They also had the help of several hounds.

Before long a large female puma was seen on the branch of a pine tree. The dogs howled as they jumped about beside the trunk, and Jones made ready to throw his lasso. Before he could do so, the animal made a leap to the ground 30 feet below.
